All attractions and riding devices at Lakewood park in full operation both day and night.

BY PAUL STEVENSON.
In a blaze of lights and colors, with a festival spirit prevailing, Atlanta's Progress and Prosperity week became a reality Monday night when the most unique and most beautiful parade of the kind ever seen here moved through the principal downtown streets to the marital strains of stirring marches played by half a dozen bands. A score or more of enormous floats from the New Orleans Mardi Gras formed the nucleus of the parade-parade. "The Romance of the Rose," which was witnessed by tens of thousands of people who lined the streets and buildings along the three miles of the route to Lakewood park.
With the first appearance of the multi-colored parade the celebration of Progress and Prosperity week was officially under way. Immediately following the parade the program called for a pleasing array of novelty attractions at Lakewood park and these were released off without a hitch. The crowd began to fill the big concert grandstand at Lakewood park long before the hour the parade arrived and after the long line of wonderful floats passed once around the race track the stands were fairly alive with armies of spectators.
Astounded Gasps.
Spectators along the line of the parade gasped with astonishment at the brilliance and shimmering beauty of the gorgeous floats. Nothing like them has been seen in Atlanta and as they moved slowly and majestically through the streets, applause and cheers burst spontaneously from the crowds. Soft colored lights and torches

SEE POSSIBILITY THAT DAUGHTERY MAY RESIGN POST

As Senatorial Attacks on
'Attorney-General Continued, His Retirement
May Come Shortly.

NOW WITH PRESIDENT ON WEEK-END CRUISE

Understood Question of Resignation "For Good of Party" Under Discussion on "Mayflower."

Constitution Bureau,
Raleigh Hotel.
Washington, May 29.—(By Constitution Leased Wire).—In the face of further attacks in the senate today on Attorney-General Daugherty by Senator Watson, of Georgia, and Senator Caraway, Arkansas, chief speculation at the capital is centered on whether or not the attorney-general will resign his cabinet office after his return from a week-end cruise with the president. It is understood that the subject of resignation "for the benefit of the party" will be discussed on the "Mayflower" by members of the presidential party.
The attacks of Senator Watson and Senator Caraway today were repetitions of other charges made in recent days.
Senator Watson went into a detailed discussion of the Morse case, quoting a number of official documents presented in obtaining the release of the former shipbuilder from the federal penitentiary at Atlanta.
In addition to this, the Georgia senator read and had included in the record numerous editorials appearing in representative newspapers, both democratic and republican, of the country, calling upon the cabinet official to resign.
Whether President Harding will take any positive position in the attacks on the attorney-general is expected to be determined in conferences on the Mayflower between the chief executive and his personal advisers, among whom are included Secretary Weeks, and Senator New. Besides Mr. Daugherty, another member of the party is Chairman Lasker, of the shipping board, whose legal advisers are responsible for the last indictment of Charles W. Morse, whose pardon from the Atlanta prison 11 years ago by President Taft and the attorney-general's connection with it started all the fuss.
The prevailing opinion within political circles is that President Harding will stick by Mr. Daugherty to the end, although the subject of resignation will be discussed from every angle. No one believes that the president will take any action to cause Mr.
Daugherty's resignation. On the contrary it is felt that plans will be formulated for combating the wholesale attacks which have been made on

Six-Year-Old Boy Utters First Word Far Above Clouds

Atlantic City, N. J., May 29.—Mute since birth, 6-year-old William Ro-senbors, of Washington, uttered his first word "airplane" yesterday af-

a seaplane. In the hope that altitude would help the boy in his efforts to talk he was to be taken up more than 5,000 feet today.

BUSINESS SHOWS REMARKABLE GAIN IN THIS DISTRICT

Federal Reserve Review Lends Added Significance to "Progress and Prosperity Week."

IMPROVEMENT IN RETAIL TRADE ONE OF FEATURES

Increased Prices for Agricultural Products Has Decided Effect in Boosting General Trade.

BY MARION KENDRICK.
Financially, the month of May has been one of remarkable improvement throughout the country, while in the south, April brought increased confidence with receipt of business reports
"more cheerful in their tone than has been the case in more than a year."
This is the outstanding business summary of the regular monthly business review issued Monday by the Federal Reserve bank of Atlanta.
Ordinarily, business stories have no place in a week of festivities. But this is "Progress and Prosperity Week," and the federal reserve report gives an added significance to the festival, for it contains by far the most optimistic statements relating to the return of prosperity than have been published in many months. The review gives just cause for Atlanta's celebration.
Retail Trade Booms.
Retail trade in April continued the improvement, which already had started in the south and sales by "department stores in thirteen cities of the district showed a satisfactory increase over the preceding month," it was declared. These sales were almost equal to those of the same stores during the corresponding month of 1921.
Fundamental improvements in other lines of business and commerce is "exerting its influence" in the sales of department stores, the review continued, showing in a material manner the real force of progress toward normalcy.
Building activity continued its improvement on a greater scale, permits of April showing a substantial increase over those of the same month of last year. The lumber industry has shown a further gain as the result of this activity, while a large part of the decrease in unemployment also may be attributed to it. Increase

JOBLESS PARADE RESULTS IN RIOT

Big London Demonstration Breaks Up in Fight
With Police Before the Bank of England.

London, May 29.—An attempt by London's unemployed to stage a big parade and demonstration broke up in a riot directly in front of the Bank of England, long the symbol of capital, late Monday.
As the marchers neared the famous old bank, police attempted to head them off. The unemployed paraders broke up their marching formation and a free-for-all fight started. Mounted police drew their truncheons and wielded them on the rioters freely. A number of arrests were made, but the small number of police on the scene enabled many to escape who might otherwise have been arrested.
As soon as the disturbance broke out, an emergency call was sent out for all policemen on leave to assist in restoring order.
Scattered fights took place between the police and the unemployed. One of the latter, during a bout with an officer, threw a brick, but it missed its target and went through a plate glass window of the American Pioneer Leather company.
Police were on the lookout for a renewal of the disorders Monday evening.

Blind 30 Years Aged Mendicant To Regain Sight

"New Lease of Life" Dawns for Old Beggar of Chicago Streets.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER.
United News Staff Correspondent.
Chicago, May 29.—After 30 years of total blindness; 30 years of sitting with a beggars' tin cup at the main entrance of Chicago Commons; 30 years in which his valuable property slipped away from him; 30 years in which his eight sons and daughters died one by one; 30 years of living in a cheap, damp, smelly basement by night—
Those days have gone forever for "Old Bill" Rase, Chicago's most famous beggar, who, at the age of 71 years, is looking forward to what he terms a "new lease of life."
Last Thursday an operation to restore the old man's vision was per-

VICTOR COHEN DEAD WITH BROKEN SKULL

Six-Year-Old and Mother With Babe in Arms Are Among Victims—Driver
Held on Blanket Charge.

A driverless motor truck plunging backward into a crowd of Prosperity week merry-makers about 8:30 Monday evening fatally injured Victor Cohen, 24, of 343 Central avenue and seriously hurt four other people, including a 6-year-old child and a woman with a baby in her arms, which was unhurt. Mr. Cohen died shortly before midnight from a fractured skull suffered when the truck crushed him against a whiteway post.
The accident occurred in front of
No. 14 Broad street. Scores of people who had been watching the "Romance of the Rose" pageant were driven from injury by the fact that the machine careened into a whiteway post after running only a few feet.
H. G. Ragan, of 244 Sunset avenue, whose car made the fatal break, was held at police station last night under $1,000 bond on a blanket charge of disorderly conduct. He had not made bond late last night.
Gears in Reverse.
According to spectators, Mr. Ragan attempted to start the truck after the pageant had passed. Failing to make the starter work, he took his hand crank, pulled the gas lever down, and began turning the engine over. Suddenly it caught, and without an instant's warning, plunged backward.
It seems that the gears had been left in reverse.
E. F. Donehoo, who was sitting in the machine, grabbed at the steering wheel and the truck swerved sharply, careening into a group of people and crushing six of them against a whiteway post.
The injured are Victor Cohen, 24, who later died; Tyler Eason, 32 East Pavilion street; Howard Mobley, 6-year-old son of Mrs. H. G. Mobley, 321 Cherokee avenue; Mrs. H. G.
Mobley; Mrs. A. E. Gillespie, 307 Atlanta avenue.
Tyler Eason and Howard Mobley received serious internal injuries in addition to cuts about the head and face. The condition of both was announced to be serious by the attending physicians.
Mrs. H. G. Mobley had a seven-months old baby which she was carrying for a neighbor in her arms at the time of the accident. The baby in some unexplained manner, escaped without a scratch though Mrs. Mobley and everybody else caught between the truck and car, was injured.
Mrs. Mobley suffered severe cuts

Ladies of Chorus Better Than Most, Asserts Ziegfeld

Producer Declares "Rough Parties" Taboo for Members of His Troupes.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER,
United News Staff Correspondent.
New York, May 29.—The Ziegfeld girl may go romping along the footlights with her knees undressed, but she has just got to be nice, or she can't hold her job. The Follies and the Sally show have gone conservative by executive order of Florence Ziegfeld, and he has "fired" little Geneva Mitchell, age 17, conditionally, for that notorious "rough party" in Boston on the night of her birthday, May 16. If she can convince him later that she was just the victim of circumstances, she will be reinstated and reimbursed for checkage of pay.
Ziegfeld thus amazed all the old-line press agents Monday. He said the majority of the working show girls had simply got tired of being suspects just because a few show girls got into an occasional jam with notoriety. Any girl in any of his shows who plays a drinking party in bad company will be fired if Ziegfeld finds her out.
"This isn't only my doing," he said;
"the girls feel that way about it, too.
It was the girls who suggested a song for this year's Follies along the line that Folly girls must have themselves finger-printed for the protection of their reputations when ordinary bad girls get into trouble and tell the police and the papers, 'We're from the Follies.'"
Most Live Clean Lives.
"Drinking and carousing are bad for the show and bad for the girls.
Most of the chorus girls nowadays live clean, decent lives, and don't drink at all. I know that Miss Mitchell doesn't drink anything, although there seems to have been plenty at that party. They can't drink and stay up all night and last long in this business. Two years of it will ruin a girl, and most of them know it."
Ziegfeld, who a year ago ordered the abolition of the lipstick and rouge and of the headed eyebrow from his chorus, blamed the man for most of the unfortunate adventures of show girls.
"And don't you think I mean the rah-rah boys, either," he said. "I mean a lot of prominent swine right here in New York who pose as respectable men and have lots of money and influence. Men like that are responsible when little girls of 17 go wrong. They would fight to defend a 17-year-old girl from a rowdy on the street, yet when they meet a girl in the show business they seem to think anything goes."
"Cleanest Lot in Town."
He got very much worked up in defense of his girls, saying they were the nicest, cleanest lot in town, and better than an equal number of society girls or stenographers picked at random. They rehearse as many as nine hours a day, and that's a harder day's work than many a man performs.
"There's no need for us to clean up the musical comedy business as they had to clean up Hollywood," he insisted. "Our girls aren't bad; they haven't the time or the vitality to run around after they finish a performance, even if they had the inclination, which they haven't."

Helen, Ga., May 29.—(By Wireless to The Constitution).—
The Georgia Tech radio outfit, together with the other units of The Constitution's "forest cruise," made part in this town early tonight after an uneventful day as for as any mishaps are concerned but marked by rousing receptions in the towns passed on the way.
The radio car arrived in time to erect its set and catch The Con-stitution's broadcast at 6 o'clock, which came in loud and clear.
The Constitution also acknowledged receipt of our signals, so the feasibility of almost constant communication between The Constitution office and the forest tourists by means of radio has been established.
BY H. H. WIMPEE.
(Staff Correspondent The Constitution.)
Cleveland, Ga., May 29.—Greeted by a triumphal series of ovations covering a distance of nearly 70 miles and lasting for nearly 10 hours, The Constitution's pathfinding car, heading the tour of government forest and highway officials in the north Georgia mountains, rolled into Cleveland shortly after 4 o'clock this afternoon exactly on scheduled time and without a single accident to mar the first leg of the trip.
People of the whole country between Atlanta and Cleveland are aroused to the highest pitch of enthusiasm over the coming of the government men under the auspices of The Constitution and seldom has any party of visitors ever been received as the mountain people received the government delegation today. The word
"Welcome" was the first heard early Monday morning at Roswell and it was the last word heard as the party pulled into Cleveland to prepare for spending the night at Helen on Yonah mountain, nearby places.
Day of Ovations.
The first day of the tour has been a day of ovations and receptions. Every town and hamlet along the route turned out virtually en masse to greet the visiting officials. Bands were playing, food and dainties were offered everywhere and cordial words of greeting were uttered nearly every mile of the trip.
The reception given the party at Cleveland was the first of the tour.

HOT STATEMENTS ISSUED AS LONG CAMPAIGN ENDS

Standpatter Appeals for Negro Vote by Dodger Charging Watkins Charter Means Slavery.

WATKINS SAYS BIG VOTE ALL HE ASKS

Both Camps Estimate Probable Vote Between 12,000 and 14,000—The Weather to Be Cloudy.

Atlanta voters will decide at the polls today between the city manager charter of Councilman Edgar Watkins and the old charter, with a few amendments.
With warm rival rallies Monday night the campaign came to a close.
Both factions announced ready for the test at the ballot box. Leaders of each side claimed their charter will win by a substantial majority.
The weather man promised a crisp, rainless day for the voting, and chiefs of the Watkins camp and the old charter forces were agreed in the prediction that a large vote will be cast.
The polls will open at 7 o'clock this morning and close at 7 o'clock this evening.
Charge Race Appeal.
Watkins advocates charged stand-patters supporting the present charter with an eleventh hour canard in an attempt to frighten the negroes against voting for the city manager plan.
They got hold of copies of a handbill which was being distributed in the negro sections claiming that a city manager would have the power to order negroes picked up at will and put at hard work on the streets.
"Under the Watkins plan," the dodger read, "the police judge will not be elected but will be appointed, and the city manager will appoint the police chief, which will make a machine made police court and a machine made police force."
"When labor is needed for street work the city manager will give orders to police chief to arrest enough men and the judge will be ordered to fine $500 or 30 days for each of them."
"Those who pay fines will furnish money to buy the materials and those who are too poor to pay will have to supply the free labor."

NUTTING MOVES TO OUST WHITTEN

Dismissal of Robert H. Whitten, consultant to the city planning commission, was urged before the council finance committee Monday morning by Councilman J. R. Nutting, a member of that body.

"Let's drop this man Whitten after July 1," said Mr. Nutting. "We are throwing away $350 a month on him, as his work of putting over the zoning plan is finished."

"This talk of keeping him to advise the planning commission about widening streets is all bunk, put out to make his job secure a while longer. The construction department will see after the streets; we don't need Mr. Whitten any longer, in my opinion, and I think the city should save the money it pays him."

The councilman proposed to transfer the office force of the commission to the office of the city building inspector, to meet the request by City Building Inspector C. J. Bowen for more help.

A committee composed of Councilman Nutting, Councilman Watkins, Councilman Seawright and City Comptroller B. Graham West was appointed to investigate it, and to report on retaining the services of Mr. Whitten.

The committee's meeting Monday morning was for the purpose of beginning the preparation of the zoning apportionment sheet. It was found, however, that expenditures are running somewhat in excess of revenue and there was no money to appropriate.

Alderman Chosewood asked the committee to recommend the purchase for $21,000 of a lot on Arden street, adjoining the Grady hospital property as the site for the cancer building soon to be erected with proceeds of the Albert Steiner bequest to the city.

The committee will meet again Tuesday morning.

Couple Arrested But Girl Denies Guilt of Man

Mrs. Catherine Sullivan, a young woman from Miami, and M. E. Smith, a real-estate man giving his home as Jacksonville, were held under bond by the government Monday afternoon, following their arrest at noon by City Detectives Cason and McGee, on a charge of possessing several ounces of morphine and cocaine.

The couple were arrested at a hotel on West Mitchell, where they had engaged a room, according to detectives, as "Mr. and Mrs. N. H. West." A city charge was preferred against them, and they were afterwards arraigned before Commissioner W. C. Carter by federal narcotic agents.

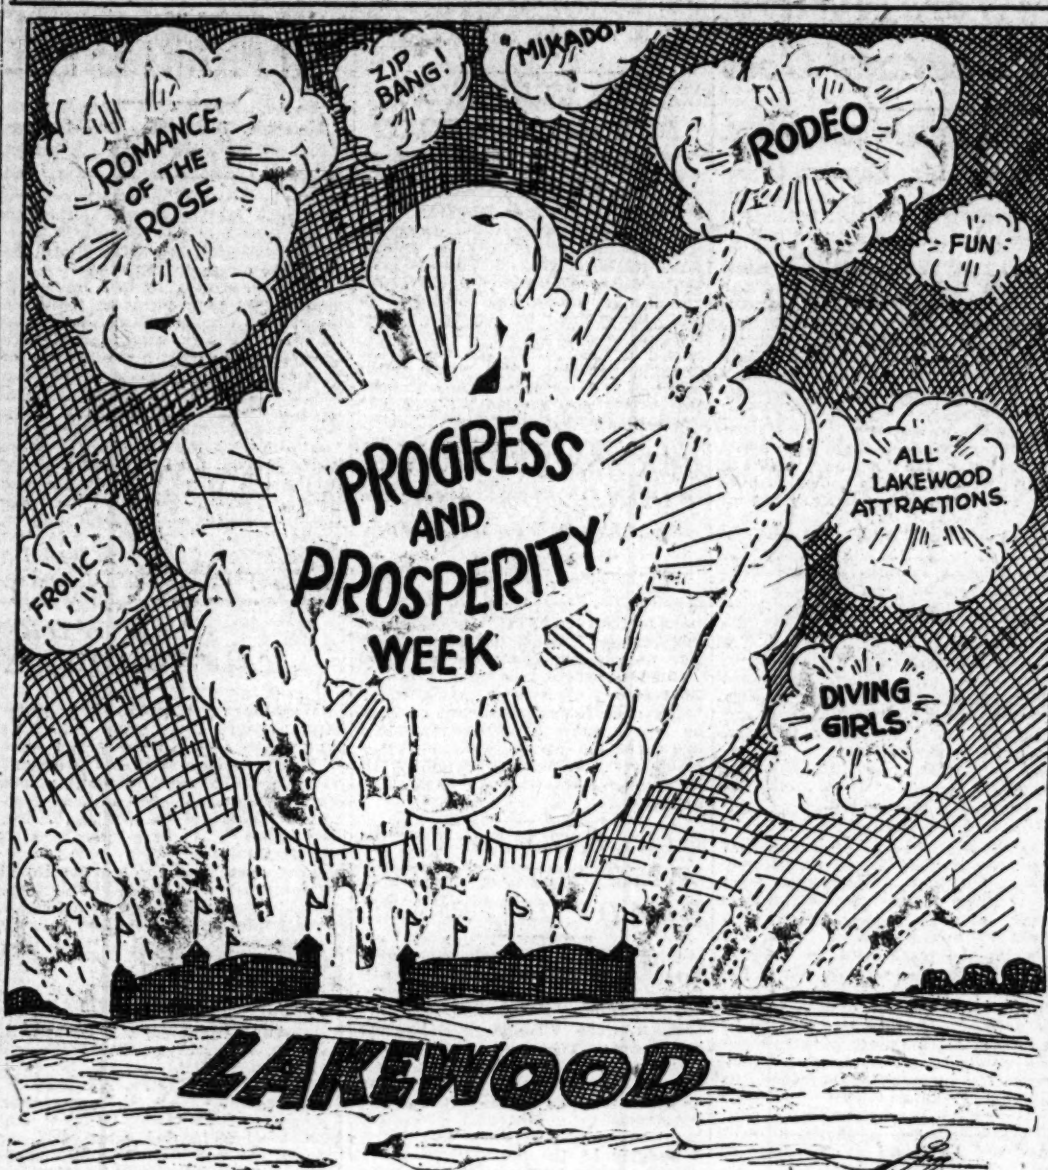

The woman admitted she had smuggled the narcotics from Cuba, but said her companion was not aware that she had the drugs. She brought them to Atlanta for the purpose of selling them, she said. Her bond was fixed at $1,000. Smith was held under $300.

MOTOR WRECKED ON SUNDAY NIGHT NOT IDENTIFIED

Ownership of the automobile that was wrecked on Sprindale road near Ponce de Leon avenue, about midnight Sunday had not been established Monday night, according to manager J. W. Lyster, of the Ansley garage. Mr. Lyster is of the opinion that if the automobile is not a stolen car, thieves took advantage of the opportunity to steal as much of the equipment as possible before it could be towed in.

The car was a Peerless and the metal plate (duplicate license) on the inside was for 1921, and records at the state capital showed this to have been issued for a Buick automobile to a lady in Augusta, Ga.

Mr. Brown heads a committee from the Washington Street churches, appointed to cooperate in backing plans for the new improvement.

He was sentenced to state prison for 14 to 30 years.

ATLANTA PRODUCTS FOR FAIR EXHIBITS

During the past month several meetings of the manufacturers' committee of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce have been held to determine and perfect plans for a creditable showing of Atlanta district manufacturers at the Southeastern fair, October 12-21. At the first meeting, called by President, W. O. Foote, practically a 98 per cent perfect attendance of the committee was reported, and a very optimistic spirit prevailed.

President Foote, in outlining the plans and purposes of the committee's work and responsibility, emphasized particularly the need of securing a complete representation of all manufacturers of the Atlanta district at the fair. In summing up the general importance of a fine exhibit, he laid stress on the fact that through a complete exhibit of all lines manufactured, new manufacturers would be impressed with Atlanta's advantages and would locate here. The advertising value of acquainting the thousands of fair visitors with the fact that so many needed articles were to be secured from "Home Manufacturers," would be shown in increased local sales.

The meeting was an important one, in that it brought out a unanimous expression from all present that the exhibit of Atlanta district manufacturers at the Southeastern fair would be an outstanding one. A general pledge was given by all present that careful study would be made along all lines covering the securing of new industries and to that end it was determined that the general committee would be later divided into various smaller sub-committees, each with its particular work to do.

Brooks Morgan, always a dependable worker in matters that concern Atlanta's welfare, was appointed chairman of an executive committee of the manufacturers' committee. This committee was created to work with the manufacturers' committee in all matters pertaining to the arrangements covering location of exhibits, costs of lights, power and other details. This committee was instructed to meet at a later date and take steps to accomplish its important work. Assisting Mr. Morgan on this committee are P. S. Arkwright, Fred Coleedge, J. K. Orr, B. Goettinger, C. H. Candler, Elfred Pavy, Howard Fox, W. O. Foote.

Subsequently, Mr. Morgan called a meeting of this committee, at which all were present. Every detail covering the securing of exhibitors, and such details as costs, size and location of exhibits were considered and adjusted as far as was possible. Discussion of where the exhibits were to be placed developed the fact that an exclusive building is to be used, sufficiently large to take care of a great number of live exhibits from Atlanta manufacturers. The committee discussed its work from every angle, planning everything possible to insure a complete exhibit from every Atlanta district manufacturer. In closing this meeting it was decided to call a meeting of all the manufacturers of the Atlanta district, at a luncheon, June 6, at which time full details of exhibition advantages would be explained and an opportunity given the manufacturers to pledge their exhibits. Officials of the Southeastern fair will be present at this luncheon and will be prepared to show maps of locations and explain all details as to locations, costs of light, power and other exhibition expenses.

Predict Cloudy Weather in City Progress Week

Although Atlanta people shivered with cold Monday and spent their time rehabilitating decrepit coal piles and in delving into labyrinths of wardrobes and closets seeking extra cover, the officials of the weather bureau unperturbed by the low temperature and declared in an off-hand way that the cold snap was nothing new to them.

According to figures in the office of C. V. von Herrmann, weather forecaster, the lowest temperature Monday was 50 degrees but this is by no means a record. Several times in recent years the temperature has dropped below this figure on May 29 and even as late as the middle of June lower figures have been registered.

In explaining the figures, Mr. Von Herrmann pointed out particularly the record made at this time of the year in 1880. On May 30 that year the temperature was 52 degrees. The next day, May 31, it dropped to 41 degrees and on June 5 dropped still lower to 39 degrees.

As late of 1917, the last part of May has been unusually cold. On May 29, 1917, the temperature was 55 degrees. In 1907 the figures were the same as this year, being 50 degrees. In 1906, 1902, 1904, 1894, 1893 and 1891 the temperature was below 50 degrees on May 29.

The outlook for the week which is being celebrated in Atlanta as Progress and Prosperity week is considerable cloudiness, occasional showers and moderate temperature. For Georgia the prediction is cloudy weather for Tuesday with probable showers in the southern part.

The present cold snap is due to distinct disturbances or areas of low atmospheric pressure along the central middle Gulf coast. The weather official said it is only cool over north Georgia, the Carolinas, eastern Tennessee and Virginia.

CITY AGAIN WINS COCA-COLA SUIT

Washington, May 29.—The supreme court today refused to review the case which the Coca-Cola company and others sought to bring to prevent the city of Atlanta, Ga., from imposing a tax upon its stock owned by residents of that city. The supreme court also refused to review the case which the Empire Cotton Oil company and its officers sought to bring to prevent the city of Atlanta from imposing a tax upon its stock owned by residents of the city.

Court Favored City. The Georgia courts held that the city could compel the company to furnish a list of its stockholders residing within the city limits and imposed a tax upon their stock notwithstanding the fact that the property of the company, all of which is located in Georgia, pays state, county and city taxes. The court also refused to review a case which Thomas K. Glenn sought to bring to prevent the city of Atlanta, Ga., from imposing a tax upon stock owned by him in the Atlantic Steel company, a Delaware corporation.

The Georgia courts held that the city could collect a tax upon the stock owned by its residents, although the company has been incorporated in another state and taxes had been paid upon its real and personal property located in Georgia. On behalf of Atlanta, suits were brought several months ago by City Attorney James L. Mayson against the Coca-Cola company, the Empire Cotton Oil company and the Atlantic Steel company, in an effort to compel the companies to furnish lists of the resident stockholders, contending that the city has the right to tax stock which they hold in these concerns. The city was successful in the superior court and the Georgia supreme court. Mr. Mayson said the action of the supreme court of the United States was the refusal of that tribunal to grant a certiorari of the cases from the Georgia court.

To Ask City Manager Plan For Augusta

Augusta, Ga., May 29.—(Special.) Notice of local legislation on a proposition to change the form of municipal government for Augusta will be published in the Chronicle tomorrow. The charter of the city is to be so changed as to make it equal to establish the city manager plan. The enabling legislation will be introduced by the delegation from Richmond county. It carries a referendum clause and the proposed change will not become effective until so ordered by a majority of the voters of the city in a special election. No change of government is sought until the expiration of the term of the incumbent mayor, Julian Smith, who was elected for three years and who was inaugurated on the first Monday in January, 1922. Fifty copies of the amended charter are being gotten in readiness for such study and suggestion as individuals or organizations may wish to advocate.

At present Augusta is governed by the mayor and council plan, council electing the civil service commission which manages the police and fire departments. The proposed city manager plan has had a substantial following for years among the male voters. It has the practical solid endorsement of the women voters. While there is opposition to any change of form of government, this opposition does not yet appear to be numerically strong or it is militant. The general belief is that the city manager plan will be adopted.

WOMAN IN RACE FOR ASSEMBLY IN BIBB COUNTY

Macon, Ga., May 29.—(Special.)—On a platform of broad humanitarian measures, particularly affecting women and children, Mrs. Viola Napier, one of three Macon women, today announced her candidacy for the state legislature from Bibb county. Should she be elected she will not be the first Macon woman to hold public office, for Mrs. C. C. Harold already is a member of the Macon city council. Mrs. Napier studied law while her husband, the late H. V. Napier, was a practicing attorney in Macon. When her husband died she decided to continue his practice herself and although she is the mother of several children, she has found time to devote to her legal business and is recognized as a success in the profession. She has been practicing for three years. Mrs. Napier said today she intends to make a county-wide campaign which will be aggressive in every respect.

Macon, Ga., May 29.—(Special.) Fifty-three young women, representing five states and one foreign country, were awarded degrees from the oldest college in the world to confere degrees upon women, when the senior class of Wesleyan was graduated tonight. Dr. William A. Lambeth, of High Point, N. C., delivered the literary address, and Dr. William F. Quinn, president of the college, Professor J. C. Hinton, dean of the girls, garbed in black caps and gowns, presented themselves on the stage for the conferring of degrees by the president. In the class of 1922, the third largest since the institution was founded, 40 young women were awarded the bachelor of arts degree and 13 the bachelor of science degree. Others were awarded diplomas and certificates in the school of fine arts.

HELD ON BLACKMAIL CHARGE IN AUGUSTA

Augusta, Ga., May 29.—(Special.) Grady Willis, charged with blackmail, was bound over to the next term of federal court under $1,500 bond, after a preliminary hearing before United States Commissioner C. J. Skinner, Jr., Monday morning, and his wife, Mrs. Eva Willis, was ordered released.

This action came after R. G. Chambers, counsel for the defendant, told the court that Willis was ready to assume all responsibility in the case, absolving his wife of any connection with the entire affair.

Willis is charged with sending John Arthur, a clerk in the mill store at Bath, S. C., a letter demanding that Arthur send him $500 under penalty of being killed. The name of R. M. Miller was signed to the letter, the writer stating that he was giving a fictitious name. Arthur said he received it on May 25, and upon reading the letter he turned it over to Mr. R. M. Miller, manager of the store. He said he knew Mr. and Mrs. Willis when he saw them, as they had been customers of the store at Bath where he worked.

He said he had never seen the handwriting of either to recognize it. Postoffice Inspector William H. Tofel handled the case for the government.

Dramatic Recital.

Elusive Figure In Ward Mystery Comes and Goes

"Charlie Ross" Joins Attorneys for Family of Slain Soldier.

New York, May 29.—"Charlie Ross" supposed "brains" of the blackmail ring which Walter S. Ward, wealthy baker, claims led to the fatal tragedy two weeks ago which ended with his shooting Clarence Peters, former sailor, whisked momentarily into sight today, and as suddenly and mysteriously disappeared.

With the authorities of West Chester county and New York professedly seeking him, the "mystery man" in the sensational case is known to have joined William J. Fallon, attorney for Peters' family, this afternoon. They met soon after "Ross" had sent an emissary to Fallon's office in the heart of the business district. The emissary was followed up by Fallon, who is presumed to have met "Ross" outside the building, and the three were swallowed up in the crowds of Forty-second street and Broadway.

An hour later Fallon telephoned newspapermen who had been waiting in his office all afternoon that he and a private detective, Harry Connors, would go to Boston tonight. He refused to say whether "Ross" would accompany them, nor would he discuss the object of the journey.

Link With Past. On the heels of this development it was learned that District Attorney Weeks had sent a messenger from his suite to the office of the local district attorney asking if a man named Nathan Rosenzweig, alias Nat Ross, is the same man as the one being sought. Rosenzweig, under the name of Nat Ross, pleaded guilty in a local court in July of last year to a charge of extortion growing out of an alleged blackmailing plot. Rosenzweig escaped with a suspended sentence. His attorney at that time was Fallon, the man now serving as counsel for Peters' family.

Rosenzweig, the authorities said, could not be found at his home in the Bronx. At White Plains Sheriff Werner and District Attorney Weeks announced tonight they were trying to run down still another thread of possible evidence which they hope would lead to the heart of the mystery that has surrounded the case since Ward's surrender more than a week after Peters was killed.

May Be Second Car. Close on the heels of a "tip" that investigation of Ward's story that he had driven Peters to the scene of the shooting in his coupe would prove another car had been used, the West Chester authorities learned the name of an automobile dealer, who, they were told, would shed much light on the slaying if he could be induced to talk. The hint that Ward might have shifted cars came from a source which the authorities refused to disclose.

It also was suggested that disclosure of a second car which reveals bloodstains, which would disprove Ward's statement that Peters had stepped from the coupe with a pistol leveled at Ward and that he was standing at the roadside when the wealthy baker shot him.

Skeptical Story.

District Attorney Weeks and Sheriff Werner have been frankly skeptical of Ward's statement that Peters was shot at the lonely spot near Kenisco reservoir where the body was found. They suspect the killing occurred elsewhere and that the body was taken there and thrown from the car.

The new car theory was second in interest only to the interest shown in the promise of Fallon to produce "Ross."

The sheriff today received a communication from Sheriff E. R. Davis, of Dutchess county, informing him of the arrest at Dutchess of Frank Chorn. Sheriff Davis said the man had steadfastly refused to talk about himself, but that he obviously was

$500,000 DAMAGE IN MEMPHIS FIRE

Memphis, Tenn., May 29.—Damage estimated at more than $500,000, largely by smoke and water, and caused by a fire of undetermined origin which late today gutted the two upper stories of the Bry-Block Mercantile company, one of the largest department stores in the south.

The fire, originating in a frame loft used for storage purposes, built on the roof of the big establishment, and fanned by a high wind, spread with such rapidity that the hundreds of girls employed made their escape from the building with difficulty. Several were overcome by smoke and taken home in ambulances.

At 5 o'clock the blaze was declared under control, the fire being confined to the loft where it originated and the upper stories. Stocks on the lower floors, members of the firm stated, would probably be almost a total loss as the entire building was flooded.

HINKLE ATTACKS COLUMBUS POLICE

Writes Letter to Mayor Stating Commission Knew He Was Taking Mrs. Hinkle to Altoona.

Columbus, Ga., May 29.—(Special.) Mayor J. Homer Dimon late today received a letter from H. Gordon Hinkle, whose office as city manager was declared vacant Saturday, the day after he had left town, in which Hinkle asserted he understood the city commission knew he was leaving with his wife for their former home at Altoona, Pa., as she was ill.

The letter which was mailed from Athens, Ga., today, added that since the commission had taken action regarding the office that Hinkle would consider his connection with it severed. He reiterated that while he had "had the co-operation of the city commission in most matters affecting the administration of the municipal government," that he had "no real authority" over the police department, which he criticized and declared had been working against the commission form of government.

To Meet Wednesday.
The regular meeting of the city commission will be held Wednesday when it is expected some action towards filling the office of city manager will be taken.

Threatening letters demanding Hinkle's resignation, which started some weeks ago, were followed recently by an explosion of a bomb which damaged Mayor Dimon's home.

"I do not understand the attitude of the commission," the letter reads, "unless you have not communicated to them information you have concerning the disloyalty and inefficiency of the department of police."

"It is true that I had the co-operation of the commission in most matters affecting the administration of the municipal government. It is likewise true that under the city charter the manager was not given jurisdiction over the police department."

"Although given nominal authority by reason of an order of the commission directing the chief of police to report to the commission through the city manager's office, the manager had no real authority."

Charges Opposition.
The commission has known as every other observant citizen of Columbus has known, that since the inauguration of commission manager government in Columbus the department of police has worked antagonistically and unrelentingly against that form of government, especially trying in every possible way to discredit the manager. Notwithstanding your knowledge of these facts and that the police were not making even the slightest pretense of doing their sworn duty, the commission refused to authorize any changes."

Trial of Preacher
On Murder Charge
Set for June 12

Charles Town, W. Va., May 29.—(By the Associated Press.)—Circuit court adjourned today with the understanding that the Rev. J. E. Wilburn, of Jeffers, would be tried June 12, on a charge of murdering Deputy Sheriff John Gore. Wilburn is accused of leading a party of miners and others August 31, during the fighting that terminated the armed march against Logan.

An application for bail for Wilburn and seven others who are the only men still in jail of the several hundred defendants in the armed march cases was dropped by defense counsel after Judge J. M. Woods declared his intention of letting prosecution attorneys hear any evidence offered to support the application.

Announcing their plans for trial of the other cases, counsel for the state said they expected as soon as the cases of men accused of killing Gore were finished to take up trial of C. Frank Keener, president of district 17, United Mine Workers, of Fred Moore, district secretary, on the treason charge of which William Hizard was acquitted Saturday.

Came as Prophet, Not Evangelist, Declares Doyle

New York, May 29.—(By the Associated Press.)—Sir Arthur Conan Doyle came to America as a prophet, not an evangelist, he said today. He then declared that within 10 years there would be religious land-slides in this country and Australia, and that when the dust clouds lift spiritualism will be the prevailing religion.

Sir Arthur just returned from a tour of the country during which he lectured on his knowledge and beliefs in spiritualism. He said he was fatigued and intended going to Atlantic City for a "dip" and maybe a lecture, if he could find an audience.

During his tour Sir Arthur said he had sought merely to interest his audiences and then let them look further into the mysteries themselves.

Has Seen Crop.
"Just as I did, they must spend years at it. They must squeeze the juice out of it and fit it to their spiritual belief as best they can," he said.

He has not been looking to make facile conversions, I have been sowing a crop for the future," he continued. "The results will be here in 10 years. I am certain of it, as certain as I am of anything under the sun. During the war I was a fairly good prophet. I foretold what the Germans would do with the submarine. Now I'm prophesying again. Within 10 years there will be a landslide in this country and I think, Australia, too, of spiritualism. It will be the prevailing religion."

It was not so easy to say whether the landslide would come to England, too, he added, because the public mind is different in England.

Spiritualism Spreads.
"It is not so open, so receptive as here," he said. "I have received no anonymous and threatening letters in America as I did in England."

"Spiritualism is filtering into the churches, and spreading rapidly over the world, Sir Arthur declared. A striking example, he said, was the marks of former President Wilson on the unknown soldier.

"You may recall he said of the unknown soldier that he was not alone, that hovering about were the souls of thousands who had given their lives in war," said Sir Arthur. "You even hear the clergy saying the same sort of things. What is it? Spiritualism; but they don't call it that because they don't like the sound of the name. Well, we must have to change that."

He suggested that "psychic Christianity" might do.

U. S. NOT LIABLE FOR COAL LOSSES UNDERWARPRICES

Washington, May 29.—The federal government is not liable for losses which coal companies alleged they suffered during the war when compelled to sell coal at prices fixed by the government, the supreme court today held in a case brought by the Pine Hill Coal company.

Harrison Protests Failure of Harding To Give Information

Washington, May 29.—Senator Harrison, democrat, of Mississippi, demanded to know today in the senate how much longer that body would have to wait for President Harding to comply with its request, embodied in a resolution adopted last month, for information as to the number of persons appointed to office by executive order since March 4, 1921.

Senator Harrison was the author of the resolution, said he had assumed that 10 days would be ample time for the compiling of a report, but added that five months had elapsed since the senate acted.

"I know that many problems are before the president," he said, "and he has been busy with his friends, but at times it is necessary that he slide down the water on the Mayflower and keep up acquaintance with his friends, but it is important that the country know how many persons have been appointed by executive order."

POINCARÉ BALKS AT HAGUE PARLEY

May Keep France Out If Discussions Are Not Between Experts Instead of Diplomats.

Paris, May 29.—(By the Associated Press.)—Premier Poincaré, it was stated in well informed quarters this evening will recommend to the chamber of deputies that France abstain from participation in the conference at The Hague on Russian affairs unless it is well established in advance that the conference is to discuss economic subjects alone, and that the discussion will take place between experts, as distinguished from diplomats.

The term experts, as understood in this connection, excludes both diplomats and political leaders. It is known, for instance, that M. Poincaré does not regard Foreign Minister Tchitcherine, of Russia, as an expert.

Three eventualities are being considered by the French government: Full participation in case the economic character of the conference is assured, provisional participation from June 15, until it appears from a week of conference whether it will be great or small, and abstention before the arrival of the Russians if politics creep in, and, in this case, the sending of an eye-witness such as the United States sent to Genoa.

It is expected that the chamber will give Premier Poincaré a free hand, with the assurance that parliament will support him if he finds that the arrangements for The Hague meeting do not give sufficient guarantees that it will be a mere continuation of the Genoa conference.

Official circles here have been much disturbed by talk in London and Rome to the effect that the question of fixing definitely the frontiers of eastern Europe between Russia and Poland and between Russia and other states may be discussed at The Hague.

The prospects of The Hague gathering will be judged partly by the lists of delegates, which will be closely scrutinized and if they are not entirely composed of experts that fact will have great weight in influencing the premier's decision concerning France's participation.

HOTTENTOTS REBEL IN SOUTH AFRICA

London, May 29.—A rebellion has broken out among the Hottentots in the southwest protectorate of Africa, says a Reuters dispatch from Cape Town.

The outbreak is attributed by the authorities to a tendency on the part of many natives to mistake kindness for weakness.

The insurgent tribe, called Bondelswarts, number only 2,000 or 3,000 but inhabit a country north of the Orange river difficult of access and has an unpleasant habit of poisoning water holes when expeditions are sent against it. It is anticipated, however, that a South African air force will have little difficulty in dealing with the rebels.

A Reuters dispatch from Windhoek, South Africa, says a sharp skirmish has taken place between the police and a strong body of the Bondelswarts, according to reports on the spot, and it is believed four Hottentots have been killed and nine captured. One policeman was killed.

Four Still Seized.
Federal prohibition agents operating in Henry county captured four stills and made several arrests last Friday, according to reports filed Monday at the office of Fred D. Dismuke, state prohibition director. A report from agents in Clayton county disclosed the seizure of three stills and three prisoners on Saturday.

Mrs. Belle Richmond, now the leading fur merchant of Tacoma, began work as a furrier in Scotland when she was a very young girl.

Non-Ratification Or Arms Treaties Puzzles Congress

Washington, May 29.—(By the Associated Press.)—What Constitution Leased Wire.—What influence, if any, the recent Genoa conference and the possibilities involved in the coming meeting of experts at The Hague will have over the final ratification of the treaties adopted at the Washington conference is a matter of speculation in congress.

State department officials say that the delay in the ratification of the treaties already been accepted by the United States will ultimately be a matter of no great concern.

HALE WAS SUCCESS IN 'THE HOTTENTOT'

Whatever else Creighton Hale is, he certainly is a comedian. Hale kept a Monday night audience at the Forsyth convulsed with laughter as he wandered through the whimsical lines of "The Hottentot," in the role that Willie Collier made famous—or vice versa, whichever you choose.

Hale's interpretation of Krumpholtz, unwinding heir to the name and fame of a great stepphane rider, had much of the eccentric humor of Collier and no little of Hale's own personality.

And any company which can take an audience delayed a half hour by a parade and street crowds and team work, and still deliver a successful performance, is bound to be a good company.

The production was a fitting successor to the "Smilin' Through," that scored such a successful premiere a week ago. It moved rapidly and with but one long wait.

Again was Romaine Callender, the newly acquired character actor, given a delightful role. Callender is a valuable addition to the company and his butler was a scream second only to Hale's.

An involuntary chorus of "On a" and "Ah's" across from the feminine section of the audience over the love scene of the Hottentot and the women.

The radiant Miss Givney wore three of the niftiest frocks beyond the descriptive powers of a mere reporter. And her part was a good one and perfectly done.

Miss Robinson wore a lovely gown; so did Alice Baker—at least the feminine element said so which makes it easily correct.

A. S. Byron returned after a week's rest and seemed greatly refreshed. He drew another role that suited his unique self exactly and with the aid of excited squeals from Misses Robinson, Givney and Baker put over the closing scene of the unseen race in smashing style.

"The Hottentot" is just the sort of thing the Forsyth players can do best. It is clean comedy with dash and verve—and there is a laugh in every line.

They are loud, unregenerate laughs that do good to those on both sides of the footlights. Atlantans will like this production.

BIDDERS ARE SILENT ON SHOALS PROPOSAL

Washington, May 29.—Failure to receive any replies from bidders competing for congressional authority to develop the government's project at Muscle Shoals, Ala., of the country's proposal given Saturday by the house military committee, caused the committee to adjourn today to meet on Thursday.

Mr. Kahn said the event an answer was received before that day.

Telegrams from W. E. Mayo and J. R. Worthington, representatives of the committee, to the committee from Detroit, said that they would be unable to return here before Wednesday.

Mr. Worthington declared Thursday would be the earliest date for him to appear before the committee.

Both Messrs. Mayo and Worthington left Washington to lay before Mr. Ford the committee's plan.

The committee's counter report, based on the Ford proposal with modifications, involving the elimination of the Morgans steam power plant from the Muscle Shoals project, is to be made public Thursday. All essential points of the document, committee members said, had been contained in the dispatches of the Associated Press last week.

Committee members began today to prepare reports on the various proposals on the table, or more than three months to submit to the house for its consideration when final action is taken by that body. It appeared that a majority report and probably three or more minority opinions would be made in order to express the widely divergent views of the 21 members with regard to the project.

Chairman Kahn has informed the committee that he intends to leave Washington Thursday for California. The committee's report on the project, however, will be made in the house by Mr. Kahn and his physicians, it was learned today, have ordered him to return to California at once.

AMERICAN MINISTER WANTS U. S. GUARD

Sofia, May 29.—(By the Associated Press.)—Charles S. Wilson, the American minister, is understood to have told the Bulgarian government that he might find it necessary to have a guard of American sailors, in consequence of the difference of views between himself and the government concerning the controversy of police protection for the American legation during the present unrest.

There has been a certain sense of insecurity during the past two days owing to the violence of political controversies between the Stamboulyski cabinet, representing the peasant party and what is called the bourgeois cabinet, led by university professors, the clergy, reserve officers and professional people, who aver that the present government has bolshevist tendencies.

It has been observed that the government is no longer attacking communists. One indication of the bitterness of the controversy was the shooting of A. L. Grekov, editor of the important daily paper Slovo.

CANNOT DEPORT COSSACK CHIEF, SAYS DECISION

Washington, May 29.—General Gregorie Semenov, Russian Cossack leader, whose deportation has been demanded by Senator Borah, of Idaho, for alleged brutalities perpetrated upon American soldiers in Russia, cannot be deported from the United States, according to a decision transmitted today by Commissioner-General of Immigration Husband to Secretary Davis.

General Semenov was legally admitted to this country, the decision stated, and cannot be deported unless, an offense is committed by him against the government. The department will make further investigation, however, of all the facts relating to the case in order to be positively satisfied that no evidence whatever has been overlooked, it was said.

Alpha Theater—Tuesday. Charles Hutchison in "On Danger's Highway."

"Fools First"—A first National attraction which started a week's engagement at the Metropolitan theater Monday.

There is no deadly sameness in the productions which emanate from this director's studios; one is always assured of something new if it is the Marshall Neilan trademark. Each succeeding picture contains innovations in direction, settings and action.

This is true especially of "Fools First." It contains one of the most original stories ever on the screen, and it has been produced in such a manner that it intrigues the observer and holds his attention without interruption.

"Footfalls."
"Footfalls," the William Fox special production which opened an engagement Monday at the Strand theater, is a unique achievement in films. It possesses a brand-new idea. Also, it performs the seemingly impossible exploit of conveying by means of pictures the impression of sound and hearing.

"Footfalls" is based upon the story of the same title by Wilbur Daniel Steele, which was awarded the O. Henry committee short story prize for 1920. It deals with a blind cobbler whose acute sense of hearing enables him to recognize the voices of every resident of the little New England fishing village where he lives.

It is a thrilling drama, and scored a big hit Monday.

YOUTH MAKES ESCAPE AFTER BANK ROBBERY
Greensboro, N. C., May 29.—Citizen posse and sheriff's deputies had tonight been unable to find any trace of a young white man, who this morning about 11 o'clock boldly walked into the little bank at Summerville, 12 miles from here, and covering both Cashier Howard Simpson and Bank Director R. H. Hoskins with a revolver took $1,500 in currency from the bank, backed out of the building, walked across the main highway, a meadow of several acres and disappeared in the woods.

The robbery was similar to that of a week ago, when a young white man, Grady Ferguson, entered the Bank of Randleman, near here, and holding up two bank officials, took $800 in cash and disappeared. Ferguson is still at large and it is stated that the description of the Summerville bank robbery fits that of the Randleman robbery.

"The Good Provider," written by Fannie Hurst and directed by Frank Borzage, is father's own picture. "Humoresque" revealed the beautiful quality of a mother's love. "The Good Provider"—written by the same author and directed by the same director—shows what father isn't such a bad skate, after all.

"Find the Woman."
(At the Rialto.)
"Find the Woman," the Paramount picture which opened at the Rialto yesterday, is one of the greatest mystery photoplays ever seen here. William Pinkerton says in all his detective experience he has never seen a mystery so baffling as "Find the Woman." And any detective who is able to solve the mystery of the picture is a real detective.

The story is built about the murder of a well-known theatrical agent. A woman is known to have been in his office shortly before his murder and she is now being sought amid a series of extraordinary complications that make the puzzle leap and gives the audience an hour and a half of rare excitement.

FOOTE SAYS TOUR WILL BE SUCCESS

Speaks at Early Breakfast for Constitution Forest Party Given by the Chamber of Commerce.

Predictions that wonderfully beneficial results will follow the tour of the north Georgia forests and mountains by government officials under the auspices of The Constitution were made early Monday morning by W. O. Foote, president of the Chamber of Commerce, who presided at a breakfast given in honor of the visitors at the Ansley hotel. The Chamber of Commerce gave the delegation a great send-off Monday morning as the party left at 7 o'clock on the week's tour of north Georgia. The Gainesville visitors who came to Atlanta to escort the visitors on the first leg of the tour were among the guests of the Chamber of Commerce at the breakfast.

"I know of nothing that has been done in years that will be productive of as beneficial results as this tour," Mr. Foote told the visiting officials. "This is a wonderful tour and will bring wonderful results and will help the people of our entire state."

Mr. Foote predicted that the opening of the north Georgia forests to the public for use as recreational centers would mean direct, substantial results to the people who live in that section.

Government Officials Who Are on Tour of Forests

The party of Government officials from Washington just after they arrived at Brookwood station Sunday afternoon to join The Constitution's forest tour party which left Atlanta Monday morning.

headed by a band from Dahlonega.

After a short stay in Clemmons the party continued to Cleveland, which will be headquarters for the night. One-half of the party went to the home of Congressman Bell at Zonah mountain, near here, while the other half was entertained by Colonel H. H. Dean at his country home at Helen, also near this place.

The Georgia Tech radio unit, under the command of Captain Autrey, prepared for action as soon as it arrived in Cleveland. The boys put up their outfit and in a short time were ready to "tune in" and send an account of the trip and to receive the concert broadcast from The Constitution radio station.

Few bad roads were encountered and there was no need of the aid of the wrecking car. From this place on the trip, however, the road was rough and will be found, according to those who have made the trip before.

Another contest for possession of the title of "the meanest man" was brought to light here recently.

A young girl, still in her teens, was struggling to provide for herself and for her widowed mother who had been unable to work for years.

Along came a young man, described by the girl as "very, very handsome," who waxed eloquent in wooing her and telling her of his desire to relieve her of the burden of caring for herself and her invalid mother.

The girl secured employment, but because of her delicate condition was unable to earn enough to provide for herself and mother. Efforts were made to place the mother in a hospital but those institutions which care for such cases were crowded and unable to take her in.

The strain and worry soon proved too much for the girl and she had to give up, leaving the two of them destitute.

The case was brought to the attention of Colonel Horace Burton, of the American Rescue Workers, who took them into the emergency home and provided for them. The girl went to the maternity ward at Grady where her baby was born three weeks ago.

She is back in the American Rescue Workers' home and soon will be able to make her own way in the world. So careful has been the nursing and medical attention to the invalid mother while in the home that attending physicians now think she will have regained full use of her legs within six months and be able to assist her daughter in supporting the family.

No trace has been found of the deserting husband, now a candidate for the title of "the meanest man."

MOYE ACQUITTED

Stands Trial in Federal Court.

Savannah, Ga., May 29.—(Special.) S. M. Moye, known as Tobe Moye, former federal prohibition enforcement officer, working this territory, who was indicted last year with James A. Wood, former chief of police of Savannah, and A. M. Kea, a deputy United States marshal, for alleged conspiracy, in which they were charged of bribe-taking and "protection" for some of the defendants, was acquitted this afternoon in federal court.

Judge S. S. Sibley, of the northern district of Georgia, sitting for the late Judge Evans, presided.

Ballinger Case.

Another case was that of Richard A. Ballinger, secretary of the interior in Taft administration. There was a congressional investigation of charges against Ballinger of maladministration of the conservation laws in Alaska. Clifford B. Phelan, recently nominated for governor of Pennsylvania, was one of the secretary's foremost accusers.

President Taft held that the charges were groundless and refused to yield to pressure to have Mr. Ballinger resign. The attacks on Ballinger did not cease, and finally he withdrew from the cabinet.

The Daugherty case presents somewhat similar aspects. It is believed that Harding will resist any effort to have him ask Mr. Daugherty to resign the attorney-generalship, but politicians think that the case has all the appearances of becoming such an issue that Mr. Daugherty may be subjected to pressure from prominent Republicans to leave the cabinet out of regard for the political fortunes of Mr. Harding.

LEGION'S DRIVE FOR MEMBERSHIP

A membership drive by the Atlanta post of the American Legion, which is hoped will result in every soldier sailor and marine in the city being enrolled as a member of the local post, was opened Monday under the direction of "Fuzzy" Woodruff, chairman of the membership committee. The results for the day were very encouraging. It was announced at the headquarters of the drive, in the Chamber of Commerce building.

Every member of the Atlanta post is on the membership committee and ten teams were organized at a meeting held Monday at the Ansley hotel. It is planned to make the Atlanta post one of the strongest in the country and the first step toward this end is to increase the membership as much as possible during the membership drive.

Deserts Young Wife When He Learns She Is to Be a Mother

Another contest for possession of the title of "the meanest man" was brought to light here recently.

A young girl, still in her teens, was struggling to provide for herself and for her widowed mother who had been unable to work for years.

Along came a young man, described by the girl as "very, very handsome," who waxed eloquent in wooing her and telling her of his desire to relieve her of the burden of caring for herself and her invalid mother.

The girl secured employment, but because of her delicate condition was unable to earn enough to provide for herself and mother. Efforts were made to place the mother in a hospital but those institutions which care for such cases were crowded and unable to take her in.

The strain and worry soon proved too much for the girl and she had to give up, leaving the two of them destitute.

The case was brought to the attention of Colonel Horace Burton, of the American Rescue Workers, who took them into the emergency home and provided for them. The girl went to the maternity ward at Grady where her baby was born three weeks ago.

Pendleton, regimental chaplain; Major and Mrs. R. T. Gibson, Major and Mrs. W. C. Washington, Miss Irene Thomas, Miss Corday Rice, and Cadet Colonel J. P. McClenahan.

Officers of company "D" are Captain Nicholas, First Lieutenant W. B. Rodenberry, Jr., and J. W. Burpitt, Second Lieutenants R. F. Huenstein and R. F. Walker, and First Sergeant K. G. Matileson, Jr. The company was made honor guard of the regimental standard and was given a prize of $100 for winning the competitive drill.

Boys Are Signing Up For Free Swimming Lessons at Y. M. C. A.

With the warm weather and many swimming facilities available, many boys have already registered for the free swimming lessons at the Central Y. M. C. A. Every boy wants to know how to swim, and the Y. M. C. A. is anxious to teach the boy as the latter is to learn. No admission fee whatever is charged. The classes will be organized as the various groups have registered. Boys will be segregated according to age.

Last year over a hundred boys were taught how to swim, and the number should far exceed the century mark this year. Bathing suits are not used in the Y. M. C. A. and bathing before using the pool is absolutely enforced. Broken skin or any kind of skin disease would prevent a boy from taking the lessons or using the pool in any capacity. The boys will not only be individually instructed but will also be under supervision while they are in the Y. M. C. A. building.

Considers Court Action.

H. M. Jones, blind and deaf, who lives near Garfield, Ga., Monday stated that he is considering taking legal action as the result of alleged mistreatment received by him while in South Carolina recently. Mr. Jones said that while in Columbia in a destitute condition he applied to a charitable agency for aid and that it reported his case to the police, the result being that he was arrested and held for the days after which he was told that a little girl who had accompanied him had been sent home and he himself was placed on a train and sent to Atlanta.

Officials Glad Forest Scenery Will Be Filmed

Distinguished members of The Constitution's north Georgia forest tour, prior to their departure on the expedition Monday morning, expressed gratification that the beautiful scenery of Georgia's mountain section is to be filmed during the course of the trip now in progress.

In addition, they were particularly delighted to hear that the moving picture operator to film the mountain scenes is James S. Buchanan, who was personally familiar to many of the party and whose excellent work, not only in this country but in Europe, is well known to them.

The forest film will be shown in northern picture theaters throughout the entire country through co-operation of Southern Enterprises, Inc. With Mr. Buchanan will be Robert B. Strickland, in charge of the educational film department of Southern Enterprises, Inc., to whom has been assigned the task of writing the titles for the film and distributing it. It is to get local color from personal observation of the scenery and he will accompany the expedition.

Mr. Buchanan has achieved distinction as a motion picture cameraman. He began his film career as a studio cameraman several years ago. During the war he served abroad as official cameraman in the most dangerous sections. He has recently been assigned by the Pathe News to President Harding's trips out of Washington, and was with the president on his last three trips.

Practically all important industrial, advertising and educational films made in the south in the immediate past were his work. Recently he filmed an industrial picture in the Georgia mountains for the Georgia Railway and Power Company.

THE GUMPS—THE CONSOLER

The Constitution's Novel-a-Week
The Woman From OutsideBY HULBERT FOOTNER
Next Week, "The Survivor,"
E. Phillips Oppenheim

Stoner bade Mary bring him the tracking line. He then led Imbrie a hundred yards from their camp, and making him sit in the grass, tied his hand and foot and invited him to meditate.

Clare waited for Stoner with wide, harassed eyes. As he came to her she said simply, "This is worse than I expected."

"The man is not right in his head," said Stoner. "There is something queer. What they call a case of double personality, perhaps. It is the only way to reconcile what you told me about him and what we see."

She said slowly: "I have known him somewhere; I am sure of that. But he is strange to me. He makes my blood run cold. I cannot explain it."

"Do not brood on it," urged Stoner. "They shatter the thoughts to Stoner."

"You look utterly worn out. Will you sleep now?"

"Yes. We won't leave here until morning. My horse must have a good rest. To be sure, I ought to be along in the morning to help pack, and to guard the prisoner."

They awoke Stoner for the evening meal. After eating, he inspected his camp, sent Clare to bed, moved Imbrie closer, instructed Mary to keep watch that he did not succeed in freeing himself, and went back to sleep again. In the middle of the night he was brought leaping to his feet by a cry out of the dark. Outside the tent he saw a man. Clare crept from her tent.

"What was it?" she asked, trembling.

A shriek answered her; a dreadful, urgent cry of agony that made the whole night shudder. It came from a little way down the trail. "A human voice!" gasped Clare.

Again it shattered the stillness, this time more dreadful, for they heard words in their own tongue. "Don't hurt me! Don't hurt me!" Then a horrible pause, and with added urgency: "Help! Help!"

"By God! English words!" cried Stoner, astounded.

"Go to her! Go to her!" cried Clare, urging him with her hands.

"It's a trick!" said Stoner. "There could be no Englishwoman near here. It's a trick to draw me out of camp!"

"But none of the Kaskias could speak English," said Clare.

"I don't know," muttered Stoner. In an agony of indecision. "My first duty is here."

The dreadful cries were raised again. "Help! Help! He's killing me!"

"I can't stand it," cried Clare. "I must go myself!"

"Stop where you are," commanded Stoner. "It is too strange a thing to happen so close to our camp if it is not staged for our benefit."

The cries were redoubled. Imbrie suddenly stirred, and rolled clear of his blanket. "What's that?" he cried, with an admiring assumption of surprise. "A woman's voice! A white woman! Why don't you go to her?"

"I am sure now," said Stoner, in a voice of relief. "This was what I fixed up with Myengen this morning. I ought to have been prepared for it. Mary, help me make a fire. A blaze will help chase the horrors."

Imbrie, seeing that his game was up, lay watching them with an unabashed grin. He seemed rather proud of his scheme, though it had failed. They heaped up a big fire, and at Stoner's initiative, sat around it. His coolness was infectious. He joked and laughed, and, toasting slices of bacon, handed them round. "We can eat all we want tonight," he said. "Tale will be along with a fresh supply tomorrow."

Then, from across the little stream, they heard a muffled thunder of hoofs in the grass. Stoner sprang up. "My horses!" he cried. "Stampeded, by God! The cowardly devils!"

He sprang across the ford, and, climbing the bank, dropped on his knees in the grass. The horses swayed and galloped off at a tangent. They were barely visible to eyes that had just left the fire. Stoner counted seven animals, and he had but six with Imbrie's. On the seventh there was the suggestion of a crouching figure. Stoner fired at the horse. The animal collapsed with a thud. It was a strange horse to him. The rider had escaped. But he would not have got far. The temptation to follow was strong, but Stoner, remembering his prisoner and the women who depended on him, refused to be drawn. He returned to where Clare and Mary awaited him.

They had not long to wait before dawn. Light revealed nothing living but themselves in the little valley, or around its rim. Stoner spoke to the two women: "I shall have to leave you for a while. There's no help for it. I'm expecting Tale Grampierre this morning, but I can't tell for sure how fast he will travel, and in the meantime the horses may be getting farther away every minute. If you are afraid to stay, I suppose you can come with me—though I may have to tramp for miles."

Clare kept her chin up. "I'll stay here. If you have to go far I'd only be a drag on you. I shan't be afraid."

The harassed policeman gave her a grateful glance. "I'll leave my revolver. I do not think there is the slightest danger of your being attacked. If the Indians, seeing me go, come around, may no attention to them. Show no fear and you are safe. If they want Imbrie, let them take him. I'll get him later."

After traversing the little meadow, the stampeded horses had taken to the trail in the direction of Fort Enterprise. Stoner followed the hoof-prints then through the trackless bush. After an hour he finally came upon all five standing dejectedly about in a narrow opening, as if ashamed of their escape and perfectly willing to be caught. Mounting one, he drove the others before him. As he came to the edge of the trees his eyes were ready to leap to the spot where he had left his charges. A shock awaited him. Of the three little tents there was but one remaining, and no sign of life around it. He furiously urged his horse to the place.

Mary and Clare were gone, with Imbrie. The camp site was trampled by scores of hoofs. The Indians had taken nothing, however, but the two little tents and the personal belongings of the women. All the tracks made off across the meadow towards the side trail back to the Swan.

CHAP. VII.—Pursuit.
Stoner sat down on a grub box, and, gripping his head between his hands, tried to think. Hard as it was to bring himself to it, he determined to get in touch with Tale before starting after Imbrie and the Kaskias. To that end he galloped headlong back through the bush. After ten miles or so, he came upon Tale riding along without a care in the world. All the way along Stoner had been thinking what he would do. It would not be sufficient to send a message by Tale; he must write to John Gaviller and to Sergeant Lambert of the mounted police at the crossing; one letter would do for both; the phrases were all ready to his pen. Briefly explaining the situation to Tale, he sat down to his notebook.

John Gaviller and Sergeant Lambert, R. N. W. M. P.—While returning with his prisoner, Ernest Imbrie, suspected of murder, had been followed by a band of Indians from Swan lake drove off his horses, and while I was away looking for them, rescued my prisoner, and also carried off the two women in my party, as that provides his only means of getting out of the country this way. Suggest that Mr. Gaviller get this through to Lambert regardless of expense. Suggest that Lambert as soon as he gets it ride overland from the crossing to the nearest point on the Swan. If he takes one of his folding boats, and takes a man to ride the horses back, he could come down the Swan. I will be coming up, and we ought to pinch Imbrie between the two of us. The situation is a serious one, as Imbrie has the whole tribe of Kaskias under his thumb. If we stop at nothing now, may be insane. The position of the women is a frightful one.—Martin Stoner.

Stoner took Tale's pack horse with its load of grub, and the breed tied his bed and rations for three days behind his saddle. Stoner gripped his hand. "So long, kid! Ride like hell. It's the most you can do for me."

Eight hours later, Stoner, haggard with anxiety and fatigue and driving his spent horse before him, rode among the tepees of the village beside Swan lake. Dismounting, he called peremptorily for Myengen. The head man came to him with a certain air of boldness, that slowly withered, however, at the sound of the policeman's ringing voice. "Myengen, you and your people have defied the law! Swift and terrible punishment awaits you! Don't think you can escape it. You have carried off a white woman. If a single hair of her head is harmed, God help you! Where is she?"

Myengen's reply was a pantomime of general denial. Stoner then ordered all the people into their tepees. Pro-

but the invariable question to her accompanied with appropriate signs; where was the white woman? She merely glanced towards the mouth of the creek where the canoes lay, then looked up the lake. It was sufficient.

Stoner coolly picked out the best-looking canoe in the creek and loaded aboard what he required of his outfit. Myengen and his men sullenly looked on. The trooper, seeing that a fair breeze was blowing up the lake, cut two poplar poles, and with a blanket quickly rigged mast and sail. When he was ready to start he delivered the rest of his outfit to Myengen, and left his horse in his care. "This is government property," he said sternly. "If anything is lost, full payment will be collected."

It was nearly 6 o'clock before Stoner left Myengen's village, and the sun went down while he was still far from the head of the lake. He decided to sail on through the night. After an hour or two the shores began to close around him. He could not find the outlet of the river in the dark; so he drove into the reeds, and taking down his sail, supped on cold bread and lake water and lay down in his canoe. In the morning he found the opening without difficulty. He had been about two hours on the river when he saw a little object floating towards him on the current that in-little platform, but of reach of the water, was tied with another strip of roll of the white outer bark of the birch. Stoner untied it and spread it out on his knee with a trembling hand. It was a letter printed in crooked characters with a point charred in the fire.

We well, him not hurt Clare any. Am scar of Crazees Clare. Sleep by me him goin' crost mountains. From Mary.

"Him scar of crazees puzzled him for a while, until it occurred to him that Mary wished to convey that Imbrie left Clare alone because he believed that her loss of memory was akin to insanity. This was where the red strain in him told. All Indians have a superstitions awe of the insane. The sign at the end of the letter was for mountains, of course. The word, no doubt, was beyond Mary's spelling. Stoner applied himself to his paddle again with a better heart. After two hours more he came to their camping place of the night before. He saw that they were in a dug-out; it left its furrow in the sand where it was pulled up. He saw the print of Clare's little foot in the sand, and the sight almost unmanned him; Mary's track was there, too, that he knew well, and Imbrie's; and to his astonishment, that of the white man, a fourth track, unknown to him. It was that of a small man or a large woman.

Stoner was on the borderland of sleep when he was suddenly roused to complete wakefulness by a little sound from behind his tent, an infinitely stealthy sound, as of a body dragging itself an inch at a time, with long waits between. It seemed to be slowly making its way around his tent towards the open front. Now, Stoner knew that there was no animal in this country that stalks human prey, and he instantly thought of his two-legged enemy. Quick and noiselessly as a cat he slipped out of his blankets, and rolling his dunnage-bag in his place, drew the blanket over it. He then cautiously slipped out under the wall of his tent on the side opposite to that whence the creeping sounds now came. On hands and knees he crawled softly around the back of his tent, determined to stalk the stalker. Rounding the corner, he lay flat and stuck his head around. Little by little he made out a shadowy form at the foot of the willows, a shape merely a degree blacker than its background. Then, against the wan surface of the river he saw an arm raised and a gun point—presumably at the dummy he had left under the tent. The gun spoke and flame leaped from the barrel.

The rooms where the game was played were decorated with silver baskets of sweet peas and snapdragons, carrying out a color note of pink.

Mrs. Meegan was presented with a blue Venetian glass bowl. Other prizes were French novelties.

Sunday's Constitution carried the statement that T. H. McDonald, chief of the bureau of public roads, is "the real executive power" in the government's road building department and the highest ranking official in the forestry expedition.

The members of the old roads and trails committee, Atlanta Chapter D. A. R., are congratulating themselves that they have an hour of his time Sunday afternoon when he will be so much in demand. They found him a very approachable personage with the simple and courteous manner which characterizes the truly great. He gave the utmost encouragement to their plans for preserving historic roads and trails in northern Georgia, listening patiently, then counseling and advising to great advantage. Jas. H. Holloman, Washington correspondent of The Constitution, and H. H. Dean, of Gainesville, showed the committee many courtesies and Congressmen Thomas M. Bell and Gordon Lee proffered their co-operation to the limit, at the conference held in the pine room of the hotel.

The forceful suggestions made by Mrs. Charles A. Davis, regent, Atlanta Chapter D. A. R.; Mrs. Albert E. Thornton, president; and Mrs. Eli Thompson, former state chairman of marking historic spots, strengthened the cause presented by the committee. Other members besides the above are Mrs. Lollie Belle Mylie, chairman and publicity director for the Georgia forestry association; Mrs. Charles Tidwell, Mrs. Clifton Orr, Mrs. Francis Brown Chase, Mrs. Lewis Thomas, Mrs. T. Stevens and Miss Virginia Hardin.

Miss Harper Is Hostess.

The table had for the central decoration corsage bouquets of sweet peas, which were presented as souvenirs after the luncheon.

Mrs. Ross Harper, of Philadelphia, assisted her daughter in entertaining. Miss Harper is the attractive debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harper, who were former residents of Atlanta, and who have a wide circle of friends in this city.

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

CENTER-OF-STAGE IT IS
Is there anything more disagreeable than a forward child?

Yes, there is—a forward child grown up and still as forward, as smart, as anxious to show off as ever.

I met one the other day.

She was hanging in the edge of a conversation between a group of people who knew each other well. She was not receiving much notice. That was plainly unendurable to her and suddenly apropos of a remark made by some one of the group to the effect that she had seen a most amusing vaudeville show the night before the forward child made a dash for the center of the stage.

Her Dash for the Center.
"Something awfully funny happened at our house the other day," she said. "It was just like an act out of a vaudeville show and we all laughed. I never understood before why people laughed at vaudeville, but I understand now."

Note her intentions. First to register the fact that she and her family were exceedingly superior folks who could not understand why common folks laughed at vaudeville. Seeond, to get someone to ask her what the funny thing was.

No one asked. The forward child grows up almost sure to arouse antagonism in everyone. There was a pause of a moment, then someone said:

"Did you never before laugh at a vaudeville show?"

Laughs at Funerals.
"Oh, no," she said brightly. "I don't think most vaudeville is funny. I laugh at funerals almost always, but never at vaudeville."

Someone bit this time and asked why she laughed at funerals and she told a story in very bad taste about a rather unpleasant thing that happened at a funeral she once attended.

Conversation among the rest of the group had died out. Every one was listening to her. You should have seen how her expression had changed from the discontent and lack of interest that had been stamped on her face when someone else was talking.

But of course you know, for you have surely seen her type. Everyone has. I am sure the wit who said: "Everywhere I go there is some man who is the life of the party and how I do hate that man," had one of her many relatives in mind.

Will Sacrifice Anything.
Center-of-the-stage-itis is the name sometimes used for the disease with which they are afflicted. They want to be in the spotlight, they are uneasy the minute they are out of it and to get back in it they will do almost anything—tell their family secrets, make fun of anything and anybody, say any absurd, ill-bred thing so long as it is startling, empty out their inmost hearts in front of any casual acquaintance.

Sometimes they are amusing for a while, sometimes they are not even that. Sometimes they have other good qualities which make one like them in spite of the disease, sometimes the disease has progressed so far that it seems to have devoured all good qualities.

WAS IN MISERY

'Twas Hard for Her to Stop Work, But This Lady Says She Had to Go to Bed—Helped by Cardui.

Salado, Texas.—"I suffered a great deal with womanly troubles," says Miss Ira Lillian Hart, of Route 1, this place. "I would, for a day or two, feel drowsy, stupid and listless; didn't feel like doing my work."

"I would suffer pains in my sides and back, and have very severe headaches."

"I am the housekeeper, and it was very hard for me to stop, but I would get in such a misery I would have to go to bed."

"I heard of Cardui, and that it was good for this suffering."

"The very first bottle I took seemed to help me. I did not suffer near so much, so I sent for the second."

"It did so much good for me, I can't say enough for Cardui, for it certainly was a friend in need. I have recommended it to others, and gladly so."

"I do not dread . . . time as I used to."

Women who feel the need of something to help relieve, or prevent, such troubles as Miss Hart mentions above, should profit by the experience of thousands of other women, who have taken Cardui, with results which cause them to praise this purely vegetable, mild, harmless, tonic for women.

JUST BANISH YOUR CARES AND ENJOY YOUR VACATION

True enough, keeping silk frocks pressed in summer has been the bane of many a woman's life, but seasons alter styles, and right now the smartest satins are being woven right in wrinkles if you can imagine it.

"Oh, dear," sighed Diana, "I have to be disappointed when I have net my heart on seeing those temple bells that sounded so entrancing from the station."

She sighed and turned back. "Let's return then. It's not much fun anyway. I have a ton of such in each shoe."

"Let me fix them for you," Johnston replied one immaculately tailored knee on the sandy road and took off first one and then the other of Diana's small pumps and emptied them of sand.

Just as he was buckling the final strap, there was the blast of a locomotive whistle and the sound of a train whistling away.

Still on his knees with Diana's foot in the crook of his hand, he started up into her dismayed eyes.

"They looked at each other blankly for a full minute before comprehension dawned and then he rose hastily and looked toward the station."

Instead of the long train lying like a torrid snake in the late afternoon sun, there was only the glimmering rails and a black undulating object disappearing in the distance.

Johnston said something forcibly under his breath, then he turned quickly to Diana.

"Don't be alarmed, Miss Diana, we'll have it flared at the next station and pick it up by motor or something."

But Diana was laughing. She sat down on a convenient stone, and

The Involuntary Vamp

Mildred Barbour

Who's Who in the Story.

Diana Langley, who possesses to a superlative degree a quality of "vamp" which has been her undoing since she was a child.

Johnston Langley, her youthful son, who is a young man of the future.

Stephen Dale, a wealthy bachelor, who has been devoted to Diana since she was a child.

Admiral Armstrong, is sentimentally interested in Marjorie Langley, at the same time Sylvia Bennett, a friend of Diana, married Stephen.

Ed Standish, a hopeless suitor for Diana's hand, who is ordered to California and on the day Diana leaves she discovers that Dale thinks enough of her to curtail a yachting trip to see her.

Johnston, an old acquaintance, whom she meets on the train. Getting off the train for a bit of exercise, Diana and Johnston are left behind at a small New Mexican town.

When they had left the train, Diana said to Lynn Johnston:

"We have plenty of time, let's go down the road towards the church. Old missions have always fascinated me and the padre are such old darlings. Just to get blessed by one of them makes you feel as though all your sins have been forgiven."

"I don't fancy you have many sins to be forgiven,"

"You don't know the art of it, dearie," she quoted gaily. "Sometimes, I am very wicked."

"I should judge that most of your sins were making men fall in love with you," he suggested.

"But I don't make them," protested Diana. "They do it of their own accord."

He laughed at that.

"Well, that's one way of passing the buck. I say, that mission of yours seems rather a bit farther than it looks, doesn't it? They say distances are tricky in this country."

"Oh, yes, in movies the heroine always sees beautiful hills close at hand and starts for them and they are only mirages and she goes on and on until she is overcome with thirst and exhaustion. Then the hero, on a perfectly fresh horse and in the best tailored riding clothes dashes up and rescues her."

She looked at him with shining eyes. "Who knows, we may find Adventure?"

"The glance he gave her was full of significance."

"I have already found one."

Diana made no response and for a few minutes they plodded along the sandy road in silence.

Johnston drew out his watch unexpectedly.

"I say, Miss Diana, I am afraid we will have to abandon the quest of the old mission of yours and the padre's blessing. We haven't too much time before the train pulls out again."

"Oh, dear," sighed Diana, "I have to be disappointed when I have net my heart on seeing those temple bells that sounded so entrancing from the station."

She sighed and turned back. "Let's return then. It's not much fun anyway. I have a ton of such in each shoe."

"Don't be alarmed, Miss Diana, we'll have it flared at the next station and pick it up by motor or something."

But Diana was laughing. She sat down on a convenient stone, and rocked with mirth, dabbing at her eyes with a small handkerchief.

"You are not crying," gasped Johnston in amazement.

Diana shook her head between sobs.

"It's so—so funny!" she gasped. "Can't you—just see Alex's face?"

Johnston looked a trifle uneasy. "I say, he will be awfully sore! It's all my fault. I ought to have taken better care of you."

"Nonsense!" Diana wiped away the last tear of mirth. "It wasn't anything but a little thing. Thank heaven I brought my vanity case with me! I always wondered how castaways on desert islands managed to look beautiful unless, I think, they conveniently washed up the ship's beauty parlor."

Diana shrugged scornfully. "Oh, Alex is perfectly sensible."

"Yes, he seemed so the last few days," muttered Johnston with poorly veiled sarcasm.

Diana flushed resentfully. "One would think you were afraid," she said with an attempted laugh. "Well, I am not! I adore adventure and the idea of being stranded in the midst of the desert without even a toothbrush still has its amusing side. Thank heaven I brought my vanity case with me! I always wondered how castaways on desert islands managed to look beautiful unless, I think, they conveniently washed up the ship's beauty parlor."

She seated herself on the rock again and taking the gold vanity case from her pocket, began airily to powder her nose.

"Suppose," she suggested to Johnston, who was watching her helplessly, "I suggest that you prove yourself useful as well as decorative by doing something."

The Constitution's Patterns

A SIMPLE DRESS STYLE.

Pattern 3661 was used for this model. It is cut in four sizes: 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. A 10-year size would require 2 3/4 yards of 36-inch material.

For a slender girl this is an ideal design. Bordered or embroidered material, crepe, lawn, dimity, pongee and linen, also gabardine and taffeta may be used for its development. Smocking, shirring or stitching will form a suitable decoration.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c in silver or stamps.

A PRETTY FROCK FOR MOTHER'S DAY.

3997. White organdy, voile, crepe or batiste is attractive for this model. The tunic portions may be omitted. Lace, banding, lattice work and embroidery are good for trimming. The pattern is cut in four sizes, 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. A 10-year size requires 5 1/4 yards of 32-inch material.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 10c in silver or stamps.

Go Ahead, Girls, Bob Your Hair; Wigs Are Fashionable Again

The same model posed for these photos showing what a wig will do for one.

There's no longer need to shed a bitter tear as the barber transforms your chestnut braids into a Dutch bob. Wigs have come back. Not merely little transformations to help out one's scanty locks, but actual wigs in all sizes, shapes and colors are being worn.

It is not only the woman who has lost her hair who seeks refuge in these new wigs, but the many women who want to go to the "bobs" and then decided they preferred a luxurious coiffure are also having wigs made up to suit their particular type. And they are having them made up in the plural, too, for one wig is never enough for the modern woman.

She must have at least three, one for morning, afternoon and evening wear.

"Is my wig on straight?" will be the next phrase added to the growing list of flapper phraseology. Everything from a white court wig to a flapper bob may be had in false hair. If one has been born a brunette, but prefers light colors for evening wear, just get a blond wig combed in some formal style and don it along with your opera cloak.

If you are one of the many women who think white hair looks just stunning on a youthful face, order a court wig of snow white tresses for state occasions.

If you belong to the set in which seats, music, moods and thoughts are represented by colors you may want to get one of the green, red or blue wigs to wear when you don't "feel" or "think" blond, brunette or gray.

BEAUTY CHATS
EDNA KENT FORBES

Kitty D.:—A reduction of ten pounds can easily be effected by eating less at each meal and eliminating all starchy foods.

M. K. L.:—One ounce of henna is mixed with three ounces of powered soap, which makes enough for several shampoos. Take about a heaping tablespoonful of this mixture to a pint of hot water and rub over the head, working up a lather with the fingers. Let this remain on the hair from 10 to 15 minutes. Rinse several times in hot and cold water. This brightens the hair, gives it lustre and richness, and will not change its color.

Miss R. L. R.:—Lime water as a mouth wash will help to counteract an acid condition. Another treatment for this is use of "Milk of Magnesia" in the same way, after the nightly cleansing of the teeth. For your oily hair, dust a little talcum powder into it occasionally to absorb some of the oil.

X. Y. Z.:—Neither the eyelash tonic nor the cream would hurt the eyes if you should get it in them. Crude oil is better than a castor oil for a dry scalp, when you are giving it a full oil treatment.

Anxious:—Most liquid powders dry out the natural secretions which should be an excuse for not using them regularly.

Reader:—For the blackheads on the chest, dissolve the soil in the skin before you use the bathbrush. To do this rub into it a light oil such as olive oil, or a cleansing cream, then remove with a hot damp cloth. You can use the bathbrush after, if you choose, but close the pores finally by

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Tough Steak.
If tough steak is placed for a few minutes in vinegar it will become much more tender.

Obstinate Fruit Jars.
When the tops of fruit jars stick, set them upside down in hot water for about five minutes.

Many Hot Water Bottles.
When there are a number of kiddies in the house, one does not always have enough hot water bottles to go around. An ordinary quart flask, tightly corked and protected with a towel, will answer just as well and will be no expense.

In the Kitchen.
Excess dressing spoils a salad. Milder stains can be removed with buttermilk.

Fresh vegetables taste better if they are rapidly boiled.

Try serving vanilla ice cream in eclair shells with butter-scotch sauce.

Always add a little salt to your cake batter, whether the recipe calls for it or not.

Creamed chicken is dainty served in a ring of hot boiled rice and garnished with parsley.

THE CHEERFUL CHERUB
My hope springs up in spite of blows. Higher after every fall. Down the road of life it goes bounding like a rubber ball.

THESE MAKE US THINK OF STRATFORD-ON-AVON

Knock at the door; peep in; open the latch and walk in. A perfectly logical performance, of course, if the guest room door of your summer cottage is fitted with a quaint little knocker, a reproduction of those to be seen in Shakespeare's old home, Stratford-on-Avon.

WHAT'S WHAT

By Helen Decie

The "spoilsport," a vexation anywhere, is never more annoying than when he or she makes an exhibition of sulky temper at an outdoor pleasure party. He may not have been consulted about the picnic program, or having been consulted, perhaps his advice has not been followed in every detail. He may not like the site selected, or he may be displeased with some of the other picnickers. Any reason will serve him for becoming unreasonable.

Everybody's good humor is desirable for the success of a picnic, but if there is one "grouch" dissatisfied with anything or with everything, and rude enough to make a public show of his dissatisfaction, he should not be allowed to spoil the day for every one else. If his grievance has been met with a courteous explanation, that is as much as he has a right to expect, and if he persists in his sulky inclivity, the best thing to do is to go on making the party a success whether he likes it or not. (Copyright, 1922, for The Constitution.)

The Children's Hour

CHIP CARVING

A boy and his penknife are inseparable. He is never so happy as when chipping some wood. Chip carving satisfies this desire and results in something constructive.

Get a cigar box, the kind that has a cover and a catch. Sandpaper it down until it is very smooth. Use No. 100 sandpaper. Draw the design shown in the illustration on a piece of paper. Make all four corners alike. Trace the design onto the top of the box and with your knife cut along one side of the petal toward the dotted line. Then turn the box and cut along the other side of the petal, also towards the dotted line. You should be able to make the whole cut with one stroke, as the wood is very soft. Sandpaper the cut surfaces if the marks of the knife show.

If rubbed with liquid wax the box will have a lovely finish. Line it with velvet or satin.

LEONARD WILL MEET BRITTON

New York, May 29.—Jack Britton and Benny Leonard will meet on Friday, June 2, in their fight for the welterweight championship. Tex Rickard, who will stage the bout in his arena at Jersey City, announced Friday that articles were finally signed here Monday. Dan Morgan and Billy Gibson managers of the two fighters, posted $5,000 forfeits. The weights will be 147 pounds at 2 o'clock on the day of the fight.

IN 1912, SHUGRUE met Charley White twice, and these two great fighters failed to settle the matter of supremacy. Joe also took on the French lightweight, Louis De Ponchies, then under the tutelage of Frank E. Zee, Shugrue beat the French lad, who later suffered injury in the world war which ended his career.

Parkinson's Homer Wins.
Philadelphia, May 29.—Parkinson's home run drove the Williams on base in the eighth inning today broke New York's winning streak and gave Philadelphia a 5 to 3 victory. In the seventh inning, Ring, the local pitcher, threw his glove at Umpire Fiferman when he gave Young his base on balls with two out and two on base. The pitcher then rushed down and made a pass as though to strike the umpire, but Catcher Henline interfered. Ring was then chased from the game. In the next inning Henline was banished for objecting to a called ball on E. Smith.

500-MILE RACE CLASSIC STARTS AT 10 O'CLOCK TODAY

Milton and Murphy Ruling Favorites, But Goux, De Palma And Wilcox Have Followings

Estimated Attendance More Than 125,000
Will See Twenty-seven Cars Start Long Grind.

BY HOMER C. GEORGE.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 29.—All preliminaries have been concluded and everything is set for the five hundred mile race at the speedway tomorrow promptly at 10 o'clock. With Tommy Milton and Jimmy Murphy ruling favorites, there is less betting than on any event in the history of the classic, but that very fact augurs well for the struggle and is helping to attract the greatest and most colorful crowd ever at a sporting event in America. It is estimated that nearly a half-million dollars will be taken at the gate, for seats ranging from $1 to $10 with $2 entrance charge in addition and more than 125,000 persons are predicted as sure to attend.

Radically designed cars and young men hold forth in the public mind as never before. Always most people talked of the veterans, but this year it is the youngsters who have been leading the way in California in all the winter and spring races. Tommy Milton, champion of 1921, with the most radical car in the race and with the greatest speed, leads the popular favor with Jimmy Murphy and Harry Harts having close races. The latter is the youngest driver in the race, being barely 21, but he has shown 103 miles an hour over this course and is sure to make a terrific bid for leadership and lap money from the start.

THREE VETS START IN FRONT ROW

Murphy, Harts and the veteran DePalma are in the front row and it is expected to be a hot fight between the three for early lap money. Milton is back in the field because he did not qualify early and then at last speed. Barney Oldfield, the veteran who says he realized youth must be served and quit two years ago, will set the pace for one lap and when he pulls he will course at 10 o'clock the battle will be on. DePalma has always had the fastest car in the race, though he has won but once, but this year several entries have been speeded and he is wondering just what he will do. Atlanta is well represented at the race. I saw Eugene Haynes, Sherwood Hurt, Austin Abbot, Harry W. Alexander, Rayburn King and a number of others today while still others are expected to arrive tomorrow morning. The crowds which pack hotels and private homes represent all states and many foreign countries. Jack Prince, the board track builder, and Bill Pickens, the San Francisco track manager, arrived today.

ORGANIZED BALL NO TRUST

Washington, May 29.—Professional baseball as conducted by teams operating under the national agreement in interstate commerce and the organizations forming the various leagues cannot be prosecuted under the Sherman act as combinations in restraint of commerce, the supreme court decided today in a case brought by the Baltimore club of the defunct Federal league.

Contending that it had been the policy of a conspiracy which the officials of the Federal league had "sold out" to the National and American leagues the Baltimore club entered the federal court at Philadelphia but permitted its suit to lapse pending negotiations with representatives of organized baseball for a satisfactory settlement. Failing, it instituted a suit under the Sherman act in the courts of the District of Columbia, claiming triple damages for the losses it had suffered when the Federal league dissolved today in a case brought by the Baltimore club of the defunct Federal league.

A verdict for $80,000 was obtained before a jury in the supreme court in the district, which was trebled under the Sherman act and was made $240,000 but this was set aside by the district court of appeals.

The opinion of the supreme court, delivered by Justice Holmes, held that the Sherman act was not applicable to the case. "The transportation of players was described as 'a mere incident not the essential thing,'" he said. "That to which it is incident, the exhibition, although made for money," it was added, "would not be called trade or commerce in the commonly accepted use of those words."

"Personal effort," constituting the professional game is not "related to production," the justice said, and "is not a subject of commerce."

"That which in its consummation is not commerce," he declared, "does not become commerce among the states because the transportation, that we have mentioned takes place."

They were to have gone 20 runs.

O'DOWD AND HUGHES

LOAF TO SLOW DRAW

Memphis, Tenn., May 29.—(Special.)—Tim O'Dowd, of Atlanta, and Bobby Hughes, of Shreveport, slouched through eight rounds here tonight in what Referee Billy Haack called a draw and the audience a love feast. They shook hands at the start and should have embraced each other with a long, lingering kiss at the finish called it the end of a perfect night.

In the third round Hughes caught O'Dowd with a wild left to the chin and that seemed to shake him in the half way across the ring. In the seventh round Hughes got his face in the way of a right, and flopped. O'Dowd awaited for him to arise. When he did they embraced and waited the round out.

Both landed almost at will and neither made much of an effort to get out of the way of punches, but neither was punching hard enough to tilt each others head when they started a punch they expected to land.

O'Dowd will leave Tuesday night for San Antonio where he boxes Johnny McCoy June 6.

IF TY COBE and his Tigers maintain anything like the pace they set in their first eastern invasion with eight victories in nine games, somebody will have to build another story on the American league to contain them at all.

Tham Langford and Tiger Flowers Battle Tonight at Ponce de Leon

Flowers Has Good Chance With Langford—Billie Hooper Meets Rough House Ware

BY MIKE THOMAS.

Youth, courage, willingness to give and take punishment and perfect physical condition will meet with years of experience, ring generalship and a real punch when Tiger Flowers and Sam Langford meet in the feature ten-round bout on the all-colored card that has been arranged to take place tonight at the baseball park. Flowers is the youngster with everything that goes in to make up a real fighter and "Tham" Langford is one of the greatest colored fighters that ever drew on a glove. This correspondence has seen Sam Langford battle several times, and we had taken it for granted before seeing him that the Boston Tar Baby was a regular mountain of a man. He is a mountain of a man all right, but for all of this he is a rather stubby sort, as mountains go, but he spreads over quite a lot of territory laterally.

As for having a punch—this has never been denied Langford, and that all the other fighters believed in him and his ability was shown when a former world's champion raced around all over the country ahead of Sam and then raced out of the country to keep from meeting him.

LANGFORD HAS MET MANY FIGHTERS.

Sam, in his years in the ring, has met and defeated many fighters—some of the real top notchers in all the heavier classes, and he has always been a drawing card because he always gives the fight fans the very best that he has. And Sam is going to do this tonight. With an opponent like Flowers—Langford in the same ring is a guarantee of a fight.

Flowers returned to Atlanta for this fight from a trip to Mexico where he met several fighters of real class. The only fight that Tiger lost on this invasion was to Lee Anderson, a heavy-weight. Tiger went away out of his weight class in meeting Anderson, but according to all the newspaper commentators he put up a wonderful battle. Flowers won the middleweight title of Mexico from Billie Britton in a great 15-round engagement. Tiger then met Frankie Murphy, who has appeared in the ring here on several occasions and Flowers outbattled him in 13 of the 15 rounds. Murphy was imported by the promoters of fights along the border for the purpose of

MISS SMITH GIVES VIOLIN PROGRAM

With Her Accompanist, Miss Wood, Violinist Presents Five Numbers From WDAW.

Radio listeners at 9 o'clock last night were given a notable concert when The Constitution presented a violin program by Miss Lilliane Smith, who was graduated last week from the George E. Lindner school of violin. In her five numbers, Miss Smith was accompanied at the piano by Miss Hazel Wood, who also accompanied Miss Smith in her graduation recital last week in Cable hall. Both are accomplished musicians, and music lovers who are also radio enthusiasts welcomed their concert by wireless.

Soon after Miss Smith's concert was concluded The Constitution was bombarded with telephone calls commending The Constitution for obtaining such talent, and complimenting Miss Smith on her art. Miss Wood's accompaniments came in for much praise in the calls from radio listeners in different parts of Atlanta and its suburbs. No doubt thousands of others found equal enjoyment in the concert and were prevented from expressing their delight over the program only by the distance between them and WDAW.

Miss Smith repeated last night several of the numbers in her recital. Her first two numbers were the last two movements of Mendelssohn's "Andante" and "Allegro molto vivace." These movements are entirely different and displayed Miss Smith's talents in the different styles of composition they represent.

Miss Smith presented "Orientele," by Cui as her third number. Still another type of composition was given in this number.

Fourth on her program Miss Smith played "Serenade du Toizaine," or the "Crazy Serenade," by Valdes. This is a delightful number and unlike any of the others.

The concluding selection by Miss Smith, Kreisler's "Hindoo Chant," probably was one of her most popular numbers.

FIFTEEN MINUTES OF RADIO EACH DAY

BY EDWARD N. DAVIS
Formerly Technical Electrical Expert for United States Government
LESSON NO. 54.
Radio Definitions.

One or more metallic wires suspended in the air and carefully insulated from surrounding objects. The wires may be solid or stranded and composed of copper, phosphor-bronze or aluminum. The aerial or antenna, as it is commonly known, serves a double purpose. When connected to a transmitter, it radiates the electric waves into the surrounding ether and when used with a receiver, it intercepts the waves radiated from transmitting stations.

A mineral possessing the property of rectifying high frequency radio signals into direct current pulsations which are rendered audible by the telephone receivers.

The distance between two points on successive waves where the energy is at a maximum or a minimum.

In its simplest form a condenser consists of two conducting surfaces separated by an insulator, known as a dielectric. A charge of electric current may be stored in a condenser.

The ability of a condenser to store up a charge of electric current in electrostatic form. Change of capacity in a radio circuit is accompanied by a change in wave-length.

Electric waves of constant size spaced so closely as to be practically continuous, usually referred to as "C. W." The development of the radio telephone has been made possible by the superimposing of the voice or musical notes upon the continuous wave.

A small glass tube from which the air has been exhausted. The tube contains three elements; a filament, which, when heated, gives off electrons or small charges of negative electricity; a positively charged plate which attracts the electrons; and a grid located between the filament and a plate and used to regulate the flow of electrons. The vacuum tube possesses three important functions, namely, the generation, detection or amplification of high frequency electric waves.

Arbitrarily defined as oscillations which vibrate at a rate in excess of 10,000 cycles per second as distinguished from those of audio-frequency which vibrate at a rate below 10,000 cycles per second.

One of the most powerful wireless stations in the world is in process of construction near Moscow. The wires which radiate the electric waves are to be supported on lofty steel towers 900 feet high which is 300 feet higher than the towers at Nauen, the famous German wireless station.

The Russian station is to be used for transatlantic communication and will have a power of 500 kilowatts.

TWO WAVE LENGTHS FOR HARDING SPEECH

Experiment to Be Made on Addresses by Highest U. S. Officials.

Washington, May 29.—For the first time in the history of radio, speeches will be broadcast simultaneously on two different wave lengths, at the dedication exercises at the Lincoln memorial, Tuesday.

The address of President Harding and Chief Justice Taft will be broadcast by the navy station at Annapolis, Md., on 400 meters and by the station at Arlington, Va., on 2,650 meters.

Between 1:30 and 2 o'clock, Tuesday, the navy department has announced, the dual broadcasting arrangement will be tested out to enable amateurs all over the country to tune up.

All day Monday, 100 experts of the American Telephone and Telephone company cooperated with navy officials in assembling the apparatus necessary for the feat, some of which was made specially for the occasion.

Experts have estimated that the microphone which will carry the speech will be relayed to the radio stations, the energy of his voice will be amplified sufficiently to equal 50,000 billion tons of energy, enough to conduct a conversation with every one of the 12,000,000 telephones in the United States.

TELEPHONIC AND PIANIST TO GIVE PROGRAM

Jack R. Hornady and Mrs. Louise Hussung to Present Five Numbers Tonight From WDAW.

A happy combination of classical numbers interspersed with selections from musical stage presentations has been arranged by The Constitution for the 9 o'clock program tonight from WDAW. The soloists will be Jack R. Hornady, tenor, and Mrs. Louise Hussung, pianist.

Probably all of the selections are numbers which have been requested of The Constitution at some time by listeners. Mr. Hornady's program tonight will consist of "Lullaby," by Jodely, and made such an impression with it that it is one of the numbers in the program tonight.

"Souvenir," by Drda, will be repeated tonight by request following her original presentation of it some little time ago.

Mr. Hornady has a well-cultivated lyric tenor voice, but is being coached now for operatic work by Signor E. Volpi. Mrs. Hussung is one of the most versatile pianists to play for The Constitution radio service. Her technique is excellent and is softened by a wealth of expression she gives her chosen numbers.

Opening the program tonight will be the tenor solo, "At Dawning," by Mr. Hornady, accompanied by Mrs. Hussung.

Mrs. Hussung will play "Souvenir," as a piano solo for the second selection.

Third on the program will be the "Swedish Song," by "Maytime." This is a selection that is rarely heard now, but one which at the same time always carries a peculiar appeal.

As a subject of the program, Mr. Hornady will sing this, and the fourth number, which will be "Smilin' Through," from the play of the same name. Mrs. Hussung will accompany him in both numbers.

The fifth number will be another piano solo, Chopin's "Polonaise Militaire," by Mrs. Hussung.

The closing number on the program at 9 o'clock tonight will be Mr. Hornady's solo, "Lullaby," by Jodely.

Macon, Ga., May 29.—(Special.)—A south-wide campaign for $1,000,000 for Wesleyan college will be instituted as soon as the period of depression is over, Bishop W. N. Ainsworth announced in an address this afternoon to the alumni of the college in the presence of representatives of the college.

Bishop Ainsworth, chairman of the board of trustees, said that the trustees "have done a lot of talking about expansion of the college, but now have begun to make plans for that expansion." He referred to "a million dollar plant on broad acres in this city."

STINSON SPEAKS AT MONROE MEETING

Monroe, Ga., May 29.—(Special.)—Rev. Richard D. Stinson, of the Atlanta Normal and Industrial Institute addressed the Walton county inter-racial meeting here at 8:30 o'clock today.

"Nobody thought of violating any rule and, therefore, the negroes were friendly to the white people and the white people knew their place. The negroes went to their schools and churches and the white people went to theirs. ## COTTON DECLINES AFTER RALLIES

October Closes at 20.47, With General Market Steady at Net Loss of 4 to 16 Points.

RANGE IN NEW YORK COTTON.

RANGE IN NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

AMERICAN EXCHANGE.

New York, May 29.—(Special.)—The following table shows the range in cotton prices on the American Cotton and Grain Exchange, Inc., today.

New York, May 29.—After advancing into new high ground for the movement at the opening today, the cotton market eased off under realizing or liquidation and a good part of the day's business was attributed to evening up accounts for the holiday tomorrow, or the government crop report on Friday.

October sold off from 20.85 to 20.42 and closed at 20.47, with the general market set started at an advance of seven to 27 points in response to steady Liverpool cables, favorable reports from Manchester goods market and reports of support from shippers in the south over Sunday.

July was relatively firm, selling up to 20.65, making new high ground for the movement on Liverpool buying and scattering support from trade or commission houses. The advance met considerable resistance at 20.65, but, in the end, the market turned easier.

The disposition to even up long contracts for over the holiday was probably offset by reports that some of the private buyers from the southwest were beginning to show an improvement, and prospects for somewhat better weather in the south.

There was also a feeling that the market had pretty well discounted an end-May crop report of below 10, and one of the private buyers from the southwest were beginning to show an improvement, and prospects for somewhat better weather in the south.

The close was within six or seven points of the lowest. Two other separate condition reports were issued, one of them placing the cotton at 67.9, the increase in acreage at 5.5 per cent and the indicated crop at 10,280,000 bales.

New York Spots.

New York, May 29.—Spots quiet, middling 21.50.

HEAVY REALIZING IN NEW ORLEANS

New Orleans, May 29.—Strong advances in the early trading in cotton today were met by very heavy and general realizing among traders on the long side of the market and a reaction to levels below the closing quotations of last week resulted, the market finally closing at net losses on the day.

July at 20.68. The early bulge came July 20 at 21.02, all month making new high levels. At the high end of the day, the market was heavy, the final prices of 16 to 20 points, with the market at 20.68.

Too much rain in the eastern half of the belt, the storm in the east, the effect of the early buying, the advance in the early trading, the reaction to levels below the closing quotations of last week resulted, the market finally closing at net losses on the day.

July at 20.68. The early bulge came July 20 at 21.02, all month making new high levels. At the high end of the day, the market was heavy, the final prices of 16 to 20 points, with the market at 20.68.

Too much rain in the eastern half of the belt, the storm in the east, the effect of the early buying, the advance in the early trading, the reaction to levels below the closing quotations of last week resulted, the market finally closing at net losses on the day.

COCA-COLA CONTINUES DRIVE TO HIGHER LEVELS

With Holiday Tuesday, Trading Is Less Active
In Wall Street Monday

BY R. L. BARNUM,

Constitution's New York Financial Correspondent.

New York, May 19.—With tomorrow a holiday many traders and brokers did not appear in the street today, and while the stock market was very strong, especially for the rails, the volume of business handled smaller. Before the opening rumors were widely circulated that the tobacco stocks were due to have an upward trading on pool operations afterward losing practically all of this gain. Coca-Cola was one of the market's features, continuing its record-breaking upward movement when it reached 67.5 and closed at 67.1. The high showed a gain of 3.75 points. The advance was associated with reports that the company's earnings currently were running at the rate of $10 per year per share. Speculative spirit of the moment enhanced the influence of this suggestion.

Wall street spent most of the day trying to get a line on where the railroads stood as a result of the wage decision just handed down. According to the dispatches a strike vote will be called by the maintenance of way workers who have just had their pay reduced 12.5 per cent, and similar action is expected by the shopmen and clerks whose wages, it is predicted, will be cut before the end of this week. Executives of western railroads met at Chicago behind closed doors to consider the freight rate reduction ordered by the interstate commerce commission last week, while presidents of eastern and southern lines were in session at Washington for the same purpose.

It is generally believed here that the railroad executives will gladly accept the rate reductions after making some kind of a formal protest and that nothing will come of the strike vote to be called by the poorly organized maintenance of way workers. As far as is known here there is no intention of cutting the wages of the highly paid and highly organized trainmen, including engineers and conductors.

In its decision made public today the railroad labor board pointed out that according to the latest available government statistics the cost of living from December of 1917 to March of 1921, increased only 17.2 per cent. While the hourly rate of pay of the maintenance of way men, under the decision just handed down, will still be 60.4 per cent above the 1917 level with the purchasing power of wages up 44.5 per cent.

As freight rates are in many cases still more than 100 per cent above the 1917 level, allowing for the reduction already made and to be made on July 1, it would not seem that either the maintenance of way workers or the executives really had any ground for complaint against the decisions just handed down by the interstate commerce commission and the railroad labor board.

Earnings Confusing.
Today's installment of railway earnings for April were confusing. Chicago and Northwestern, for example, reported gross of $10,000,000, an increase of $80,000, with net operating income of $1,010,000, an increase of $22,000, with gross for the four months down $3,120,000, and net operating income of $3,202,000.

Rock Island, with $9,188,000 gross, a loss of $1,232,000, reported a deficit after fixed charges of $328,000, against net income for April of last year of $83,000. Varying statements for April and the four months were reported by a number of other roads, including Great Northern, Burlington and St. Paul.

There was also confusing statements on the wage situation. While Wall street was considering the award just handed down by the railroad labor board, word came from Akron that the Firestone Tire and Rubber company was considering the pay of all of its men 10 per cent, and that the exact result in the company's income account could not be figured out until it was learned that what extent the wage increase would be offset by the lower freight rates. Naturally railway men who heard of the strike vote to be called by the maintenance of way workers were not pleased at the news from Akron, but were pleased over the dispatches from Philadelphia announcing that the wages of surface motor men and conductors were to be cut 1.2 cents an hour.

Copper Strong.
Copper held strong today, sales of the metal for June delivery being announced at 14 cents.
Call money opened at 4 per cent today, and was in good demand for various purposes, the semi-annual payment to the city of New York being about due. Time money remained at an hour.

Bank of Germany.

“SERIAL MATURITIES” SAFEGUARD MILLER MORTGAGE BONDS
Every year, or every six months, a definite part of each issue of Miller First Mortgage Bonds is paid off in cash. The cash is accumulated by monthly payments which the borrower makes to the Trustee. These serial maturities are an important safety feature of every issue of Miller Mortgage Bonds, illustrated in the bonds which we issued to finance the New Cecil Hotel in this city.

By annual or semi-annual repayments, the debt is being constantly reduced, interest payments are being constantly increasing, for no part of the mortgage is released until the last bond is paid. Our free booklet, "Selecting Your Investments," fully describes the safeguards of Miller Mortgage Bonds.
